BAL MASQUE WHIRLS ENDS DAY OF GAYETY

Miss Frances van Boddie, "Mysterious Y. M. B. L. Girl," Identified by L. N. Jones, Who Captures $25 Prize.

COSTUMES PRETTY AND PICTURESQUE

Grand March a Colorful Spectacle, With Many Beautiful, Fanciful, Grotesque and Artistically Designed Creations of Raiment.

Total attendance at the Texas Cotton Palace yesterday, as reported by Secretary Seth N. Mayfield, 14,677.

Yesterday was not labeled "Fort Worth Day" on the program, but the Cotton Palace was Fort Worth's from the time the boosters entered the gates, and before they left they had gathered in the coliseum and sold the Palace, grounds and all, to the highest bidder.

The "hurrah" auction was the grand finale of a triumphal round through the exposition. There were only 250 in the Panther bunch, but with the band at their head they made it known that they were there, and all day long the most conspicuous feature of the ground was the presence of the white hats and the blue Panther pennants. Those who were not at the Cotton Palace took in the city by auto, driving up and down the main streets singing "She's Got Style All the While" for Waco.

Wind Up With Bal Masque.
The Fort Worth jubilee was a fitting prelude to the overflow of hilarity which marked the concluding feature of the day, the grand masked ball of the Young Men's Business League. A hundred business houses of Waco joined together to make the opening march of this ball a spectacle of masked costumes seldom seen. Every shape of grotesque and artistic was represented.

One of the most remarkable sets of costumes was that of the Sheet Metal Workers, who appeared clad in the armor of the days when knighthood was in flower. The medieval warriors presented a most imposing front of breastplates and deadly-looking weapons.

Postoffice Employees.
Waco postoffice employees followed the lead of their chief in efforts to add to the success of the Cotton Palace, and presented to the assembled audience "The tallest man in the world," clad in the long-limbed garb of "Uncle Sam." This marionette of a man had ribbons streaming from the top of his hat, with an employee of the postoffice in regulation uniform trailing at the end of each.

Whittaker's Understudy Appears.
The students of the day before withheld "Reckless Whittaker" and "Professor Anderson" from their scheduled thrills, although Whittaker's understudy took his place in the slide for life. Except that he kicked out the end of the water tank into which he slid the "sail" did the deed as neatly as the original. Whittaker himself will again defy death in the high dive and bicycle leap this afternoon. It is expected that the balloon will also be repaired in time for the afternoon. Professor Anderson has announced his intention of landing on the Amicable building, if the wind is right.

Stables Parade Today.
At 2 o'clock this afternoon there will be a parade of all the stock in the Cotton Palace stables. There will be, among other things, a hundred of the prettiest Shetland ponies of the state, scores of blooded horses, 500 prize porkers, 200 sheep and other forms of prize stock in proportion. The stock show this year is a credit to the exposition, and it is expected that a large

STORM ON GREAT LAKES CAUSES DAMAGE RUNNING INTO MILLIONS AND COSTS THREE SCORE LIVES

Sweeps From Western End of Superior to Eastern End of Erie. On Land—Cleveland and Other Cities Suffer.

Chicago, Nov. 11.—The shores of Lake Superior, Huron and Erie were strewn tonight with the wreckage of a three-day's gale, and snow storms which cost the lives of probably three score persons, turned bottom up in mid-lake a 500-foot vessel with its crew, wrecked or grounded numerous craft and caused a property loss as yet unestimated, but which will run into the millions.

Details of the storm which laterally swept from the western end of Lake Superior to the eastern shore of Lake Erie, became known only today when survivors began arriving in various ports with tales of hardships and heroic rescues seldom equaled on the lakes.

On land the storm hit the hardest at Cleveland, Ohio, where 24 inches of snow fell, five persons were killed and ten others lost, and where $2,000,000 damage was caused by property, chiefly telephone and telegraph systems, thus keeping that city out of direct communication for several hours.

Five bodies washed ashore at St. Joseph, on the Canadian side of Lake Huron. (Four had belts marked Wexford and one wore a belt marked "London.")

Three bodies washed ashore on the west shore of Lake Huron.

Two bodies washed ashore opposite to the overturned boat.

Six members of a lightship drowned in Lake Erie near Buffalo, N. Y.

Many Narrow Escapes.
The escapes from death were numerous. After the storm about Friday midnight had blown away the forward part of the ship, Captain J. W. Duddie, of the steamer L. C. Waldo, navigated his vessel by a small, inaccurate compass and with the aid of a lantern held by a sailor. In this way he guided himself and crew to a reef where the crew on landing suffered intense cold and hunger until their rescue today.

The crew of the Turret Chief, when the ship struck the rocks in Lake Superior, were forced to go ashore on a small island. They built a hut to protect them from the blizzard.

It is impossible even to estimate the loss to vessels wrecked for damages by grounding. The loss in Detroit alone is believed to be $1,000,000.

Three of the wrecked steamers increase the loss by $1,000,000, while the scores of smaller craft driven ashore in Lake Superior and Lake Erie will send the total much higher.

The more important mishaps to vessels were:

Unidentified 300 foot steel freighter, floating bottom up in Lake Huron, a few miles south of Port Huron. U. S. life crew found vessel in such position it was almost impossible for the crew to have escaped. Lightship No. 52 in Lake Erie, off Port Albino, 15 miles west of Buffalo, with crew of six, believed lost; lifeboat found floating bottom up in Lake Erie.

Steamer Torn to Pieces.
Steamer L. C. Waldo, of Bay Transportation company of Detroit, torn to pieces by storm Friday night, and found against rocks on Gull Rock, Michigan island, captain and crew of 25 men and 2 women rescued after having been without food 90 hours; badly frozen; taken tonight to Houston, Mich.; vessel, valued at $200,000, total loss.

Steamer Turret Chief, of the Merchants Mutual Line, Ontario, went to pieces on the rocks six miles east of Keweenaw Point in Lake Superior last night. The vessel was bound for Port Huron, Ont. Blown only 4 miles off course, crew of 12 rescued after having lived for three days in a hut on a reef; loss, $100,000.

Unidentified vessel wrecked on rocks at Annapolis Point, Isle Royale, Lake Superior.

Among the frail craft jeopardized by the storm was the Santa Maria, a reproduction of Columbus' caravel, which was bound from Chicago to San Francisco. It was driven into a mud bank near Erie.

The vessels reported aground with slight or no damage numbered more than thirty.

Reports from all points tonight indicated the storm had ended.

Worst in Cleveland's History.
Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 11.—With fair, warmer weather predicted for tomorrow, Cleveland tonight is hopeful of a speedy cessation of the difficulty that have beset the city since the worst snowstorm in its history descended upon it Sunday night.

A resumption of the blizzard would be fatal, since it would prevent relief from the food scarcity.

As a result of the disturbed state of the lake, a new menace today developed. The drinking water has turned to the color of coffee and warnings were issued by the health department to obviate a typhoid fever epidemic by boiling drinking water.

The number of the dead of the storm was increased to five today when John Richmond, 55 years old, was crushed to death by the collapse of the roof of his house beneath the weight of snow, and Wm. Combert was frozen in a snowdrift.

The work of tidying up the city was made possible this afternoon when the snowfall ceased for a period. Fifteen hundred workmen succeeded in putting fourteen street car lines in order and others probably will be running on schedule by tomorrow.

In the meantime telegraph and telephone companies cleared away a large part of the wreckage resulting from the destruction of poles and establishing a few connections with neighboring cities. The work of rehabilitation has been developed that the worst of the blizzard was limited to an area of some fifty miles around Cleveland.

The hospitals are greatly handicapped. Some have experienced a lack of proper food and others have had to do with candle lights. Not until the snow clears away will the police be

VOTE IS FOR STRIKE ANXIOUS AT EMBASSY

EMPLOYEES OF S. P. BETWEEN EL PASO AND NEW ORLEANS FAVOR.

98 Per Cent Would Walk Out If Company Refuses Further to Concede to Settlement.

Houston, Nov. 11.—A canvass of the strike vote of all members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors and Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Yardmen on the Sunset Central lines yesterday disclosed the fact that 98 per cent of the membership of those orders on the lines of that company is in favor of striking, unless the company changes from its former position and concedes to a settlement of all grievances of the four orders jointly.

The action of the employees in taking an effort to get a conference with the company for the adjustment of the grievances of all of the orders which the company declined to grant, claiming that it would be irregular and contrary to existing contracts with the orders.

Chairmen of the committees of adjustment of the orders claim that they have tried to effect settlement with the company as individual orders and that their efforts were futile. They say that there have been repeated and frequent personal grievances.

President W. M. Scott and Assistant General Manager G. S. Wald claim that the company is living up to the contracts and are willing to meet the men in accordance with the rule for settling grievances heretofore in effect.

President Scott said that with reference to the results of the strike vote that he was not prepared to discuss the matter until he had given it further consideration. He would not say whether mediation or arbitration would be resorted to.

The next move on the part of the organizations will be to advise the grand lodge officers of their respective orders of the results of the strike vote and ask that a strike be ordered, unless the company agrees to the terms of the settlement of the four orders.

Until the order to strike is received or the company takes some action there remains nothing to be done but for both sides to the controversy to await the action of the grand lodge officers.

Business Men Protest.
San Antonio, Nov. 11.—In an effort to prevent the impending strike of employees of the Sunset-Central railroad, business men representing six divisions of the San Antonio chamber of commerce met in executive session this morning and voiced a vigorous protest against radical action on the part of either the employees of the railroad company which may result in a strike and cause business to be tied up.

Expression of the attitude of the commercial interests of this city regarding the situation was set forth in a resolution. The resolution was immediately telegraphed to Sunset-Central officials in Houston and to the committees representing the Brotherhoods which are directing negotiations for the employees.

Prepare for Strikebreakers.
New Orleans, Nov. 11.—Cold, bedding and food are being stored in the Algiers shops of the Southern Pacific Railroad presumably for subsistence of strikebreakers in event the company and its federated trainmen fail to settle the differences at the last hour. Union officials today declared that employees here were almost a unit in their vote for a strike. Officials of the railroad here are reticent.

The visit of today of L. P. Horton of Chicago, vice president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, gave rise to the rumor that the Southern Pacific would not suffer for the need of switchmen as this union is known to be inimical to the interests of the trainmen's brotherhood. He spent much time in the Algiers yards before leaving tonight for Houston.

FOR THE DEFENSE OF PANAMA
Secretary Garrison Returns to Washington After Inspection of Canal.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary Garrison returned to his desk today from his first trip to the Panama Canal.

"The defenses constitute a marvelous feat in engineering," said Mr. Garrison. He explained that guns to be mounted at the Atlantic and Pacific terminals will have a range of ten or twelve miles, adequate to protect the canal from the attack of the navy.

The first step toward developing the naval defense of the canal was taken today by the dispatch of five submarine boats from Guantanamo to Cristobal.

The first deep draught vessel to pass through the Panama Canal from ocean to ocean will be one of the government Panama railroad steamers, now plying between New York and Colon, if the plan which Secretary Garrison has in contemplation is adopted.

The secretary's idea is to allow Colonel Goethals all the time he requires to complete the canal and experiment with it before this initial trip is made.

Then, having on board President Wilson and some of the members of his cabinet, the congressional committee, having jurisdiction over the canal and a few newspaper men, the Panama liner will pass through the waterway from Cristobal to the Atlantic side to Balboa on the Pacific entrance.

PRESIDENT AND HIS ADVISORS IN TWO-HOUR DISCUSSION OF MEXICAN SITUATION.

NO BACKWARD STEP

WILL CONVINCE PROVISIONAL PRESIDENT OF U. S. EARNESTNESS.

NO DECISION AS TO EMBARGO

Many Favor Allowing Arms Exported Into Republic—Harmony With Other Powers.

Washington, Nov. 11.—President Wilson's cabinet and staff firmly behind him in his efforts to force the retirement of Provisional President Huerta as a necessary step to the pacification of Mexico.

For more than two hours today the president discussed a practical and perhaps early solution of the Mexican situation and the consensus of opinion was that the United States government should not take a single backward step in its announced program looking to the restoration of constitutional government in the southern republic.

Though cabinet members were reticent after today's meeting, it became known that all favored steps which would convince Huerta that the United States was in earnest in its demand that he eliminate himself from the situation.

On the question of raising the embargo on the arms the cabinet members expressed various opinions. Some of them recognized in this method a practical and perhaps early solution of the difficulty, but there was no final decision on the point.

There is a hope on the part of both the president and Secretary Bryan that a discussion so radical as permitting exportation of arms as permitted to solve the problem.

Influences are at work which in the opinion of many officials, may force the early collapse of the Huerta regime. There is a closer understanding, for instance, and more frequent communications between the state department here and foreign governments generally than has been in evidence at any time since the Mexican problem became so widely international.

Not only through the American embassies and legations abroad but through the diplomatic corps in Washington, Secretary Bryan is keeping the American policy as to leave no doubt of what the United States would like to see accomplished.

So far as is known, there have been no direct requests for foreign support. But the strong intimations that the United States would like foreign nations to refrain completely from interference in the affairs of the Huerta government are expected to produce a decided effect.

To Discourage Financial Aid.
What the United States is seeking is an acquiescence in its policy by the powers, such as approval to carry with it discouragement of financial aid to the Huerta regime through any foreign subjects. A few weeks of the financial isolation, it is believed by high officials here, will force the retirement of Huerta.

The President Wilson might possibly issue a statement in a day or two making a comprehensive explanation of the purpose of the United States was indicated by some of the diplomats who have now been fully informed about the situation.

The president, it is said, has not finally determined whether he shall make a pronouncement, but it has been suggested to him that such a declaration might place on record before the world the reasons why the elections conducted by the Huerta government of president, vice president and members of congress in Mexico could not be recognized by the United States.

It is reported that in connection with the president may announce the repudiation in advance of any acts of the new congress, which General Huerta has said will be convened on November 20.

Consider Removal of Embargo.
President Wilson was in communication again today through Senator Bacon with members of the senate foreign relations committee. The president feels that members of the committee, republicans and democrats alike, are supporting the policy of the executive and he is giving serious consideration to their views as to the removal of the embargo on arms.

British foreign minister, Sir Edward Grey, had obtained Secretary Bryan's British foreign minister, Sir Edward Grey had obtained Secretary Bryan's views and had transmitted them in a long report of the situation to London. The British ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, is still confined to his bed.

Senor de la Vega, Cuban charge here, issued a statement denying for his government a recent report from Nogales, Sonora, that two Cuban warships had been offered to the Mexican constitutionalists at a conference between General Venustiano Carranza and a Cuban committee headed by Pablo Menocal, brother of the president of Cuba. Senor Menocal, the statement said, went to Sonora on an exclusively commercial trip.

May Probate Will of Chas. G. Gates at Port Arthur

New York, Nov. 11.—The estate of Charles G. Gates will be divided between his widow and his mother, Mrs. John W. Gates, who will get equal shares in the residuary estate, about $2,000,000 each, after bequests amounting to about $500,000, are paid to relatives and friends.

The principal provisions of the will were announced tonight by A. L. Humes, of personal counsel for Mrs. John W. Gates, who is named executrix. The will was executed August 2, 1912. Doubt as to the legal residence of Mr. Gates was the reason assigned for not making application at once for probate. It is believed, however, that it will be offered for probate at Port Arthur, Tex., where Mr. Gates is said to have voted last.

Among the other bequests is one of $100,000 to the testator's cousin, Henry R. Baker, and one for $100,000 in trust to another cousin, Miss Dellora F. Ansell, both of whom live in St. Charles, Mo. The personal effects and paintings and pictures are given in part to Mrs. John W. Gates and part to the widow.

Henry R. Baker, who was 21 years old when John W. Gates died, received $250,000 from the elder Gates, which was paid when Baker completed his college course. Miss Ansell, the blind sister of Mrs. John W. Gates, also received $100,000 in trust from her uncle.

TRADES BALL SCORES BIG HIT

WILL LACY AND MISS RUTH LENNOX TAKE FIRST PRIZE FOR COSTUMES.

COAL, COTTON AND CANVAS WIN

Lacy Coal Co., McFadden Brothers and Clifton Manufacturing Co. Representatives Get the Honors.

Wall Lacy and Miss Ruth Lennox, costumed to represent an Indian chief and an Indian maiden, and proclaiming Oseage and McFadden coal, which comes from that was once the "Beautiful Indian Territory," but which is now a part of the state of Oklahoma, won the first prize of $25 in the Trades display given under the auspices of the Young Men's Business League last night, at the Cotton Palace. They represented the Lacy Coal company.

Cotton and Canvas Win.

L. B. Hinton and Clem Herbelin, who came on the floor each with head and feet sticking out of a bale of cotton and representing McFadden Brothers, cotton factors, (W. J. Neale, Waco representative), won the second prize of $15.

L. M. Crow and Miss Willie Marshall, attired in full dress made of materials used in the manufacture of tents and awnings and with hedges made in the representation of tents, as the representatives of the Clifton Manufacturing company, were awarded the third prize of $10.

Originality in Costumes.

The Trades display was a distinct success. It brought out much of the artistic in the manner in which the costumes were fashioned, and there were some very unique ideas presented.

The Coliseum was crowded to its greatest capacity for accommodation for the occasion and as the various displays came on the floor there was applause for each.

Harry M. Baine was master of ceremonies and from the band stand announced the displays as they came on the floor. These were announced in alphabetical order.

Doc Pepper and Miss Waco.

First to appear were Julian Moore and Miss Sallie Keith as "Dr. Pepper" and Miss Waco for the Artesian Manufacturing and Bottling company. Mr. Moore was in full evening dress, with a red ribbon across his shirtfront, labeled "Dr. Pepper," and Miss Waco was attired as a doctor's nurse.

Beckley & Beckley, "home builders," were represented by Mr. and Mrs. C. Beckley, who were attired in unique costumes, their hats being cozy homes fashioned of cotton.

The Behrens Drug company was represented by J. C. Harris, who wore a costume of blue and white, and Miss Marie Moore for McCumber's Beauty cream.

Budweiser for Two.

August A. Busch & Co. was represented by Mr. and Mrs. C. Sparks. Mr. Sparks had on a German court costume and Mrs. Sparks was dressed as a German housewife in a dress with a bottle of Budweiser and a tray with glasses.

The Waco Mill and Elevator company was represented by V. A. Harron and Miss Viola Moore. Mr. Harron was in cap and bells, Miss Moore was dressed as a Belle of Waco and it was at once evident that the company was personally conducted Belle of Waco flour.

Interest Here in Tents.

Clifton Manufacturing company came next, represented by L. M. Crow and Miss Willie Marshall. The tent cloth of several colors which was used in the costumes was high class material that looked good as clothes, and certainly would look good in tents. The representation was excellent.

The Club Barber shop came next, represented by Fred and Mrs. Joe Kemendo. They were dressed to represent two barber poles, and Mr. Kemendo carried a huge razor.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Easley, representing the Easley farm, were attired in costumes made entirely of cotton, the lint just as it comes from the gin being used as material.

The Grocery So Different, George G. Stubbfield, proprietor, was represented by Lloyd Gray and Miss Blanche Custer. They wore costumes of the latest design, made of four sacks that were "Stubbfield's."

C. H. Cox, the Candy King, announced Master of Ceremonies Baine when Hardin Davis and Miss Lettie Caster came on the floor attired as Mr. and Mrs. Candy. There is stick candy and there is other stick candy, but this was the kind that has the sicken look to it and the bright red stripes that is made with the purest ingredients and sparkles in the light when it is fashioned into the round form that goes to market.

Here Comes the Ice Man. Geyer Ice company was represented by the "ice man" and the snow woman. A. M. Fitzpatrick was dressed in overalls, just like the fellow who delivers the ice at the door. He carried ice cones and a representation of a block of ice. Miss Grace Chappell was dressed in "snow," which represents the stage of the water before the Geyer company makes the water "stick together."

Glass-Lens was next represented by W. M. Smith and Mrs. Smith. He wore a mask of brass and blind to represent the sporting goods house, and Mrs. Smith was attired in a costume of pen-nants.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Morgan represented the Hammon-Hammon company, their costumes being after the native costume of Spina.

Fashion Enters. Goldstein & Migel arrived in an electric. When Mr. Baine announced them, the east door of the Coliseum opened and a high-class electric laundrette slipped noiselessly over the dancing floor, made the circuit of the room, and stopping at the entrance to a ball room, deposited Harry Hoffman and Miss Belle Hoffman, attired in the approved evening wear of today, fit for the most elaborate and exclusive evening entertainment, showing the high-class costumes of the Goldstein-Migel company. While the crowd watched in admiration, the electric slipped out, returned and then stepped to the floor of the Coliseum. Beverly Hardin and Miss Fay Hoffman, attired in Goldstein-Migel company traveling costumes, even to the handbag. Carrying out further the department store idea there was a third coupe, E. F. Niece, who drove to Miss Lillie Cohen, slipped out of the coupe and into the Coliseum. In Bartol's Splendor.

Hammond-Vawter company, as represented by Mr. and Mrs. Hammon, carried out the high-class tailoring idea. Mr. Hammon was in the latest out of evening wear and Mrs. Hammon wore a well-tailored suit.

Lewis F. Drucker and Miss Margaret Schurman represented the Herrick Hardware company, and had hanging on their costumes various and many things which are sold in a hardware store.

Hill Printing and Stationery company was represented by Ivan Johnson and Miss Mamie Kessler, who were on their costumes articles showing the various departments of a leading printing and stationery house—everything in the printing line.

Buddie's Fruitful Display. "Buddie's" place was represented by "Buddie" himself, Will Burrows, who had fruit hanging all over him. He was an apple tree, a grape vine, a banana tree and other things in one costume.

W. A. Holt & Co. was represented by Holt Massie and Mrs. W. A. Holt, dressed

YOU CAN SEE IT AT THE CARNIVAL

Can Touch and Taste It—One of Nature's Newest and Greatest Texas Products.

If you visit the No-Tsu-Oh carnival this week you will see many things of interest. One of them will be in the Industrial department and will be a showing of the processes of producing Vitalitas, the new earth fluid that is gaining world fame.

At the carnival in Houston one year ago was shown the first exhibit of this kind ever made. Since then similar exhibits have been made in many cities. This was the first time the late Dallas fair. Requests for Vitalitas exhibits are pouring in and they are to be shown at many fairs and in many cities.

One feature of these displays is a miniature plant, operating day and night, showing how Vitalitas is extracted from the energized substance in which it is found. Into this plant is fed the crude volcanic matter and out of it comes, drop by drop, the heavy, dark, golden liquid that is revolutionizing at least in part the taking of man-made medicines. This plant is a small pattern of the actual plant in the laboratory at Houston, the only place where Vitalitas is scientifically extracted.

The public now knows enough about Vitalitas to be eager to know more. It is daily bringing relief and amazing cures of ailments of stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and blood. There is nothing else like Vitalitas. You can investigate Vitalitas at the Powers-Kelly Drug Co.

as golf players, and with them were Ford Motor and John Holt as caddies.

That "Central" as it is called, as well as sweet-voiced was proved by the attendance from the switchboard of the Brazos Valley Telephone company. Company of Miss Tinsley and Miss Eda Traub, two of the operators of that exchange. They represented "The Independent," were the "head stall" receiver and the attached transmitter. Bands about their hair carried tiny incandescent lights which sparkled as they moved in the march.

Kress was represented by Miss B. Weaver, a bright little girl, who was leading a huge stick of candy, the man inside the stick being candy. Dalton, the candy was ringed all round with red streamers and looked good enough to eat.

Next were the Grangers, as well as prize, Will Lacy and Miss Ruth Lennox, in their Indian costumes.

Morrison's Old Corner Drug Store, "Head-Up-Air" was represented by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Solomon. Mr. Solomon wore a hat fashioned like a tray, on which was a hat of straw, with a bottle of "Head-Up-Air" and a tray with glasses. The hat was a drugist's mortar and pestle. Pendant from her waist were pen-nants reading "Head-Up-Air."

Next were the second prize winners, two huge bales of cotton walking with the feet of L. B. Hinton and Clem Herbelin, and showing the Indian chief and his squaw and W. C. Carothers and D. G. Carpenter as cowboys.

The Milkmaid and the Maid. M. B. Ice Cream came next, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jensen being accurately attired as a dairyman and a milkmaid.

Israel and Miss Ida Kessler were gotten up as Zu-Zu and a cook for a representation of the National Biscuit company.

The Pure company was represented by Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Cupp in approved costume, with red sashes reading "Pure Ice Cream."

Powerfully Drug company sent "Doc Bird" and Mrs. Bird to represent them. Doc Bird had his medicine case with him and as they came on the floor Mrs. Bird collapsed, but "Doc Bird" was there with the restoratives and announced that he "gets it where they've got it." The representatives were M. J. Hall and J. W. Zea.

Fred Wolfe in Flower. "Wolfe the Florist" was represented by Fred Wolfe, who was a huge chrysanthemum. The display was true to the flower it represented. In every particular, the wide brown flower surrounded by a mass of green leaves and stem being shown in the dress of his body and lower limbs. He was accompanied by little Edna Brigrance as a flower.

The Waco Sash and Door company had four representatives in S. E. Carothers and wife, representing an Indian chief and his squaw and W. C. Carothers and D. G. Carpenter as cowboys.

Next came the United States postoffice, probably a rare exhibit as the United States departments do not always take part in trade. The modern methods of advertising are strong with Postmaster Hoffmann and he has a message for the people at this time "Mail your Christmas packages early." Leading the procession of mail carriers was J. M. Schiller, dressed as "Uncle Sam." He is the tallest of his clan, and he towered above his fellows like a mountain above a mole hill. Following in double file were J. M. Kilgough, A. C. Jackson, J. L. J. Kilgough, C. R. Carroll, C. W. Davis, John Fraser, G. E. Means, A. Williams, Wallace Taylor, George Wallace, Parker Goldard, G. S. Robinson, George George, W. Miller, Theodore Harrison, Fred Wallace and A. C. Anderson, who were attired as cowboys.

Postman's Gentle Reminder. Anderson brought up the rear. He was loaded with letters and packages and he walked with the halting step of one worn out with his weary tramp and his heavy burden. A large sign on his chest read "Mail your Christmas packages early."

In Silks and Satins. Sanger Brothers' representation was by Miss Rose Goldberg and Thomas Henderson, Misses Mildred Eaton and Margaret Yates. Miss Goldberg, dressed in an evening gown designed by Paquin in gold and blue, carried a bouquet of flowers, exquisitely hand-headed of silver and silk.

is healthy blood—blood that is normal in red and white corpuscles and all other important constituents. To have it, and the strength it gives, be sure to take HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

Your blood is not pure if you have scurfy, pimples, boils, or other eruptions, eczema or salt rheum, psoriasis, rheumatism, anemia, nervousness, that tired feeling, loss of appetite or general debility.

You should take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and begin taking it at once.

There is no real substitute for Hood's Sarsaparilla. If urged to buy any preparation said to be "just as good," you may be sure it is inferior, costs less to make, and yields the dealer a larger profit.

Miss Yates wore a dress fashioned from silk bought from Sanger Brothers in 1911, thirty-two years ago, and trimmed in the same lace that was originally purchased to adorn the gown at that time. It was an evening gown of light blue silk and prettily trimmed. The material was originally purchased by the late Mrs. J. C. Walker.

"Telly's Teas" was represented by Miss Smith, who came as the representative of the Copps grocery company, and with her marched Miss Martha Haug, who represented the M. B. Ice Cream company.

These members were all in coat of mail, made of sheet metal, each man making his own costume. They carried a shield emblemized on the front of which were the letters which indicated the organization which they represented. In the party were the following: Dyck, Powers, Hout, Henderson, Crawford, Lohenstein, Mitchell, Wade, Hardy, Moslett, Wells, York, Watson, Banks, Adams, Rayner, Wade, Fenley, Goodwyn, Dunlap and Jacobs. They received most favorable mention from the judges.

They represented the Texas Power and Light company and its several departments, the costume of the young lady showing the light and the young man showing the power.

The Law and the Mexican. L. Lovely was dressed as a peace officer and represented "the law" and Mrs. Lovely was attired as a Mexican girl, who was in charge of the law. C. B. McCollum and Miss Lucy Keesee were dressed in costumes covered completely with copies of the Waco Semi-Weekly Herald.

The Waco Times-Herald was represented by Miss Ida Grand, who wore a bright red costume, carrying the streamer "Waco Times-Herald" was accompanied by George W. Cole in evening dress. The judges of the parade were Will C. Aker, J. Walter Cooke and Holloway Smith.

President W. H. Hoffmann of the Cotton Palace association, announced the parade and then the music started for the dance.

Thief Gets $638.40 From U. S. Mail

Chicago, Nov. 11.—A pouch of registered mail, stolen today from a wagon carrying United States mail, yielded the thief $638.40, according to a statement by postal inspectors tonight. It had been given out earlier today that money and gems to the value of $10,000 were lost in the looting of the mail pouch. The inspectors are searching for Albert P. Lardy, driver of the wagon from which the mail was stolen. Mrs. Lardy told the officers her husband said he had robbed a mail pouch and that he was going to escape to Canada.

Killed Turkey Day.

Killeen, Tex., Nov. 11.—Ons day in every year is set aside for the killing of "turkeys" and on that day the turkeys from the surrounding section are rounded up and brought in for sale. This year it required two days to handle the large number of birds that were brought in, which fact was a large freight cars and brought in money returns to the farmers the sum of $2,367.20. A great many are holding back their turkeys for market, however, expecting to get better prices later in the month.

To Inspect Fire Boat.

Austin, Nov. 11.—A. L. Haynes, secretary of the state fire insurance commission, left today for Galveston and company by R. B. Godley, chief engineer of the department, and R. P. Carruth, chief clerk. They will inspect the new fire boat recently installed at Galveston and give it a thorough examination.

Following the inspection of the boat the property owners along the water edge will be allowed a reduction in their rates of insurance although the key rate for Galveston will not be affected.

Negro Kills White Woman.

Angola, La., Nov. 11.—Surprised by a member of the household while attempting to assault a woman and her child in her home, the state prison farm today, Harry Harret, a negro "trusty," choked his victim and, hurling her body to the floor, broke her neck. The negro then obtained a revolver from a wardrobe and shot himself through the heart.

Looked the Part.

(Chicago, Ill. and Herald.) "So," said the judge, when the blarneyed, unkempt, and battered prisoner stood up. "You are a husband and father. You ought to be ashamed of yourself. Do you know that whenever you buy a drink of whiskey you take bread out of the mouths of your babies? I have no patience with persons like you. If it were not for those who are dependent upon you I would give you the limit. There sits your wife. Look at her! I suppose she has had to take in washing to earn the pittance by which the souls and bodies of those you ought to be supporting are held together. You know that to be good. Any other kind of punishment is too good for you. But for the sake of your little ones I am going to—"

"Say, judge, your honor," the culprit interrupted, "I hate to break in on you, but I'm no husband and father, and that lady you pointed to ain't my wife. But I don't blame you for makin' the mistake. I was in a freight wreck last night and I suppose I look like a husband and father, all right."

"SPUGS" HEAR MRS. BELMONT

In Speech Before Society for Prevention of Unnecessary Giving Condemns Tips.

New York, Nov. 11.—While the spirit of giving judiciously was commended by the spiritless of useless giving especially at Christmas time and more especially to the constant giving of tips was condemned and an appeal for nationwide co-operation was made tonight by Mrs. August Belmont, president of the Society for the Prevention of Unnecessary Giving, District Attorney Whitman and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman at the opening of the campaign by the "Spugs" against the annual holiday waste of insincere giving.

"I hate graft, I detest the grafter and I abhor grafting," District Attorney Whitman said at the meeting of 1,500 "spugs" assembled to discuss means for abolishing the "evil."

Mr. Whitman said that while his work was concerned chiefly with the unwise takers he was inclined to believe that unwise givers also were a harm to society. In this connection the district attorney attacked the tipping system, which he declared was pauperizing "our most worthy workers" and "ruining the democracy of which we so proudly boast to the older nations."

Wilson Asks About the Lewis Letters

Washington, Nov. 11.—President Wilson inquired today into details of the tangle over the publication of letters purported to have been written by Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, offering Pindell of Peoria, Ill., a newspaper publisher, the ambassador to Russia for one year without diplomatic responsibilities.

Mr. Pindell, who has been reported upon as acceptable to the Russian government, arrived in Washington early today and with Secretary Bryan and Senator McPherson, assistant attorney general, laid the details of the subject before the president.

Mr. Pindell furnished copies of all correspondence that had actually passed between himself and Senator Lewis and the newspapers containing alleged copies of these letters.

"The matter is entirely in the president's hands," said Mr. Pindell as he left the executive offices. No other word was forthcoming from anybody.

Friends of Mr. Pindell said tonight that he and Senator Lewis were on as friendly terms as ever and expressed confidence that the nomination of Mr. Pindell would be sent to the senate soon.

TAZELAR EJECTED.

Federation of Labor Refuses to Accept Credentials. Seattle, Wash., Nov. 11.—The American Federation of Labor today refused to accept the credentials of Jacob Tazelaar, delegate of the Painters, Paperhangers and Decorators union and ordered that he be excluded from the floor of the convention held here.

Tazelaar was named by Col. Martin M. Mulhall, former agent of the National Association of Manufacturers, as having been employed by Mulhall to work against the election of Representative William Hughes of New Jersey. Mulhall swore before a congressional committee that he paid Tazelaar $1,000 for his services against Hughes, whom the National Association of Manufacturers was seeking to defeat.

STORM ON THE GREAT LAKES

Captain Duddleson believes the boat is a total loss.

Captain T. Paddling and crew of sixteen of the steamer Turret Chief of Ontario, which foundered six miles east of Copper Harbor, Keweenaw Point, at 4 o'clock Saturday morning, arrived in Calumet today. Frost, wind, and rain without respite since Friday night, the crew reached Copper Harbor yesterday afternoon, being directed there by a trapper. Today they reached Madan and got into communication with civilization.

A few of the crew were asleep when the Turret Chief drifted ashore. The men were thrown from their beds and had time to don but little clothing. A number of them were compelled to leave the boat barefoot and several of these suffered from bitten feet. All suffered from exposure. With waves washing over the bulk of their vessel the crew picked their way to the mainland. A hut was hastily built to shelter them from the blizzard until yesterday morning.

Members of the crew believe that the Turret Chief, a steel boat, valued at $100,000, will be a total loss as her position is such that she cannot be moved before the waves pound her to pieces.

The steamer was bound from Medlin, Ont., for Fort Williams, and was struck by the gale within 316 miles northwest of White Fish Point Friday night. She drifted more than 100 miles with the waves washing over her decks.

Seven Bodies Wash Ashore. Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 11.—According to reports received tonight in a roundabout way from the Canadian port of Lake Huron, seven bodies had been washed ashore at Kettle Point and a ship, grounded far out from the point, was being pounded to pieces by the waves.

Seven other bodies, it was declared, could be seen rolling about the decks of the stranded vessel.

Only a part of the boat's name could be made out, that being "Queen," the "The Northern Queen," a steel freighter of Buffalo, has not been accounted for since she passed this port Sunday morning, headed into Lake Huron.

Now later the ship has been on the

ASK RELIEF FROM TAXES.

Negroes May Secure an Appropriation

A delegation representing the management of the Taborian park for negroes, appeared before the city commission yesterday morning and asked that the taxes be remitted on the amusement features in the park. The delegation explained that the negroes had built the park in order that the two races might have their amusement features separate, which is as large a benefit to whites as to the blacks. The park is open to the public free, and the only revenue is from the concessions. If the concessions are to be taxed, it is feared that the park will have trouble getting the features desired.

Mayor Mackey informed the delegation that the taxes could not be remitted, but that the city could make them an appropriation to cover the amount. The commissioners assured the negroes that this course would be adopted.

MRS. LORETTA REEVES TO BE BRIDGE HOSTESS

Mrs. Loretta Reeves on Tuesday made it known that on Friday afternoon she would be hostess at bridge, in compliment to Miss Anne Rishers as a debutante and to Miss Lucy Reeves, who is visiting from Marlin. This will be a card party to the society girls.

A WACO BOY HONORED BY STUDENT FRIENDS

One of the recent student honors which means popularity of the recipient has come to "Bob" Hale, who is attending the university at Galveston. Young Hale is elected cheer leader for the football season from the medical department of the State University. His first official "cheer" was given at the exciting ball game in Houston on Saturday.

MR. AND MRS. W. D. HERRING NOW RESIDE IN HOUSTON

Within recent weeks, the removal of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Herring and Miss Lucille Herring is of more than passing moment. The long residence on Herring avenue has made the friends of many years feel that this family was Waco's own. The old home is closed, an incident of regretful note to the many who have received its genuine, generous hospitality. Houston is the new home.

THE SOCIAL CALENDAR IS TO BE RESUMED

The common consent among the Waco women to cease all social entertainment during the Cotton Palace season has caused the Social Calendar to be held in abeyance for the two weeks. But within the next few days, the women will be falling back into the same routine, and then will come the daily calendar for social, club and church events. The women will please hear this in mind, and report anything which is suitable for this place.

PLEASANT DINNER PARTIES OUT AT THE HUACO CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Davis with William Davis and John Davis formed a dinner party out at the Huaco club on Monday evening. This was in compliment to "The Little Boy Blue," who in private life had been a summer acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Davis. At the same time Dr. and Mrs. Ferrell, with Miss Viola Barton, were entertaining Mr. and Mrs. John Sleeper with their guests, the Mesdames Crow and Ferguson of Meridian, and Thomas Simpson of Abilene. The dinner was joined in an after social chat before repalling to the Auditorium.

WALTER PLUNKETT HOME HAS CHANGED OWNERS

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Plunkett relinquished the home on Herring avenue, where they had resided for more than forty years. Indeed all but the first years of their married life have been spent under this roof. The children have been born, lived happy childhood, attended school, married and gone into other homes, but always with a fond return for visits to the beloved parents who remained. Mr. Plunkett's indifferent health has decided the move to a suburban home, so with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Dean a new household is today formed in the quiet neighborhood of South Third. Although the old home is theirs no longer, the Mesdames Plunkett and Dean continue among their friends of these passing years.

TODAY IS BREAD CONTEST FOR THE COTTON PALACE

This afternoon it is in order to go out to the Cotton Palace to see the best bread and roll which can be baked by Waco housewives. Miss Esther Grace is in hopes that entries will be numerous. She announces that her committee will be at the main gate between the hours of half after eleven and half after two, to receive the pieces for this contest. The mysterious lady representative was not half so difficult to locate as have been the various judges for the women's departments. They have not disclosed their identity at this time. In this connection, the exhibits have been in such very close competition that the judges are evading the ire of the ribbonless articles?

PRETTY SUNSET CEREMONY GIVES AWAY WACO BRIDE

Through an effective disposal of light, the ceremony which gave Miss Gladys Graves into the heart and the home of Dr. Stevenson of Terrell, was made very effective. The sunset bride had been selected, and in order that this might receive emphasis, there gleamed the seven branch candlestick on the altar, its waxen tapers to shed its soft radiance upon the bride. As the benediction was given, the entire lighting capacity of the Austin Avenue Methodist shone forth upon a proud young husband and a fair young wife. Not one touch of color came into this bride, but the relief in the pink costume of Miss Flora Lee McCullough, the only attendant of the bride.

A Musical Prelude.

For the half hour preceding the ceremony, the activities of the wedding party were the naturally sweet and well trained voice of Miss Elizabeth Ghent of Temple; also two organ numbers from Miss Mary Anderson, also trained abroad. During this the ushers, Leland McCullough, Vivien Westbrook, John Brockenborough, with Dr. Doyle Eastland, conducted to their seats hundreds of wedding guests. These seated, there was noted in the family reservation Dr. and Mrs. Marvin Graves of Galveston, George W. Graves, P. F. Graves and R. A. Graves of Houston; Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Graves of Lorena. But one member from this large family was not present to give his sanction to this happy event in the life of the youngest from the home. He was represented by a message from Georgia. Thus six sons and two sisters gathered about the altar by her brother, Dr. Marvin L. Graves, meeting there the groom who was attended by his fraternity classmate, Dr. J. H. Graves. Rev. C. R. Wright, the bride's former pastor, came from Temple to conduct the service. The bride wore a much admired costume of white, not the conventional robe with train and veil, but rather the now prevailing suit, with ### draped skirt and modish coat. Her

hat continued the white, relieved only by the blint of the rhinestones class to the graceful plume. Miss McCullough wore a stylish early season gown of the pink; she carried the pink arm buds, while the bride's dress was showered from the typical bouquet which she carried.

No invitations were issued for the after greeting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed McCullough, but the large family connections together with the number who came for the occasion, gave an especial sacredness to the hour as well as a reception to Dr. Stevenson, the new son. It was soon a going away. The wedding suit was exchanged for a coat suit in blue cord enriched by a gold tapestry and a dash of the Oriental color. Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson were soon off for their home journey. This takes them to Terrell.

The Wedding Gifts.

To review the array of wedding gifts is to note that remembrances came from all the Texas cities, and some from out of the state. This attests the wide acquaintance of both the bride and the groom. Dr. Stevenson, originally from San Angelo, is well known through his student, hospital and general practice in Texas. As Miss Gladys Graves, who is visiting in many Texas towns, and always with a pronounced welcome into society. The new home is not so far but that frequent visits can be made. These will always be noted with pleasure by the friends whom she relinquishes for this happiest of all relations.

Society Notes.

The illness of her sister has called Mrs. J. P. Anderson to Tuscaloosa, Ala. She has sent home encouraging reports.

Did you know that some people, not you go to the Ellery concerts to enjoy the music? Your constant and annoying chatter does not indicate that you understand this.

Mrs. A. B. Cowan, Fifth and Clay, is from Dallas, is this week's guest of her sister, Mrs. Irvine Cammack, on North Sixth street.

Mrs. Bolivar Nettles was elected a member of the Shakers club at its last meeting.

Did some one remark that the women of Waco could not move a parade on time? We think they did, but they are silent as the sphinx since Saturday.

The much admired float from the Bangs school has dominated the parade in that the little folks made every single flower with which the float was decorated.

It is said now, show the world the furniture in your home, and you have shown it the interior of your brain. We do not hear much of the trophy door these days. May Irwin, the little actress, has around her bedroom a plate rail, the same as is seen in the dining room. But on this is placed souvenirs, odd bits of figure, soft, amused all the time. Perhaps this is the outcome of the trophy door. We like the idea, especially for the guest room. In travel and by gifts we acquire a number of small things which would make interesting bedroom plate rail collection.

Aviator trips are now being called "flying meetings." Every innovation into society brings some new phrases. It is truly the work of an artist. The grace of pose, the lifelike expression, the management of drapery, all is excellent.

Really it seems that, if we get the feather somewhere on our new fall hat, nothing else is necessary. Some of the extremists are fastening the bit of rhinestone on the instep of the dancing slipper. The glint is quite effective.

Waco Elks express in all confidence their opinion that the ball Friday night will be the most elaborate social affair ever known in this city, and members of the organization from all over Texas are sending word that they will be on hand for the occasion. A brilliant and successful social gathering is planned, and the rest of the arrangements will be in keeping.

This will be strictly a formal affair, and no one is to be allowed on the floor without a dressy suit. Admission at the gates will be obtained in the usual manner, but the dance floor will be open only to those presenting certificates of membership in the order, and to those with cards of special invitation.

WOMEN'S CLUBS MEET.

Texas Federation in Session at Corpus Christi.

Corpus Christi, Nov. 11.—With the largest attendance in the sixteen years history of the organization, the convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs was formally opened this morning and President E. H. Hertzberg of San Antonio, president of the organization, presiding. The auditorium of the Mech, seating more than 1,000 people, was filled. The committee on credentials reported the actual attendance of delegates exceeds 325.

Following address of welcome and response, the convention received reports of the credentials, rules and regulations committee. Mrs. J. C. Muse of Dallas submitted the program committee report. The remainder of the day will be devoted to the receiving of reports of state officers, covering their work for the past year.

MRS. WHITE TELLS OF U. D. C. WORK

RECOUNTS ACHIEVEMENTS OF ORGANIZATION AT NEW ORLEANS CONVENTION.

PLANS FOR SHILOH MONUMENT

$50,000 Will Be Spent Commemorating Valor of Entire Confederate Army.

New Orleans, Nov. 11.—Achievements of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, recounted by President General Mrs. Alexander B. White, featured the first business session of the twentieth annual convention of the organization here tonight. Delegates from every state in the south are present and some from the north, east and west. The convention will remain in session until Saturday.

Of the preliminary work of committees that which is considering plans for a monument on the Shiloh battlefield, for which $50,000 has been collected, attracted most attention. Another committee is considering raising funds to provide a home for needy Confederate women. The Shiloh monument committee has had several meetings without selecting any of the models presented by artists and will not be ready to report until at least one more meeting takes place. All of the committee work is done in secret and will not be made public until reported to the convention.

Only two candidates are in the field for election as president-general. They are Mrs. Nathan D. Ella of Virginia and Mrs. Daisy McLaurin Stevens, daughter of the late Senator McLaurin of Mississippi. While interest in the election is more or less keen, there has been little evidence so far of a spirited contest.

The daughters were welcomed officially tonight by officers of the New Orleans chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, which has supplied funds for the convention and an extensive round of entertainment. Between the three business sessions each day some entertainment has been provided.

Mrs. White's Address.
"Loyalty to the truth of Confederate history," was declared the chief aim and motive of the United Daughters of the Confederacy by Mrs. Alexander B. White, president-general, in her address to the annual convention of the organization here tonight.

President-General White devoted her attention chiefly to a detailed recital of the work already done by the Daughters of the Confederacy toward commemorating the brave and achievements of southern soldiers.

She called attention to the fact that although the United Daughters of the Confederacy is comparatively a youthful organization, having been formed in Nashville, Tenn., in the fall of 1894, it already has a membership of more than 30,000, with active and growing chapters in thirty-three of the forty-eight states of the Union. She said that every member is of strictly southern lineage and the organization incidentally one of the south alone.

In outlining the results accomplished by the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. White said:

"We have held out the hand of hope to our dear veterans by showing our pride in the chapter of fame they were for the south, by honoring them and by helping them in their struggles. We have aided them in feebleness and old age by getting pensions for them, by building homes for them and for Confederate widows, or by inducing various states to erect such homes."

The speaker said she believed that every southern state now has its home for Confederate veterans and that many also have homes for Confederate women, in all of which the United Daughters of the Confederacy have furnished many luxuries for the sick as well as providing physicians and nurses.

Help in Times of Disaster.
Mrs. White called to mind the fact that in times of disaster, no matter in what section of the country, the members of the organization invariably have been among the first to contribute funds for the relief of the suffering.

This, she said, was true of the San Francisco earthquake and fire and the more recent floods in the Mississippi valley and in Ohio and Indiana and Illinois.

"One of our chief objects," she continued, "is to show honor and reverence to Confederate heroes, living and dead. Nearly 70,000 crosses of honor have been conferred. So faithfully have we commemorated the deeds and lives of heroes of the south with monuments, tablets and memorials that we now are called the 'monument builders'."

In this connection Mrs. White spoke of the monument erected to Jefferson Davis at Richmond, Va., in 1907. She characterized this memorial, which cost $1,000, as the organization's most ambitious undertaking. Continuing, she said:

"Last November the laying of the cornerstone of the Arlington monument at Washington was a most brilliant occasion and we are eagerly looking forward to the unveiling of this great monument that will breathe the spirit of the south in the shadow of that home which stands for nobleness, honor and duty."

Mrs. White said that the design for the monument at the Shiloh National Military park, to commemorate the valor of the entire Confederate army, would be selected in New Orleans. She spoke briefly of charitable and educational work now being done by the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the good results already accomplished thereby. Regarding the desire to perpetuate the history of the Confederacy, she said:

"Eagerly we await the great historian who shall write truthfully and dispassionately of the south and for his coming we cherish every paper relic and letter that may help to tell the story. So all will be ready to his hand in our Confederate museum at Richmond, the treasure house of those who built the Confederacy's glory out of deathless dreams."

E. H. Rosenbaum Killed at Orange.
Orange, Tex., Nov. 11.—E. H. Rosenbaum of this city was shot and instantly killed by John Swiley of Liberty county here yesterday afternoon. Swiley has served a sentence in the penitentiary, it is said, for killing a man in Liberty county. He was arrested. Rosenbaum is survived by a widow and several children.

PETITIONS FOR PAVING.

Referred to City Attorney and Engineer by Commission.

Petitions for permanent paving, on Sixteenth street and on Lyle street, were received by the city commission yesterday and were referred to the city attorney and engineer for investigation.

Mayor Mackey in regard to the numerous petitions of this kind now coming in, expressed the opinion that some of the people had the idea that they would get out of their share of the assessments because the city had not pushed the collections so far. "It looks like they are getting pavement free," said the mayor, "and they are all going in for it."

Commissioner Littlefield asked the secretary just what was the status of the paving collections. "Are the property owners coming across?" asked Commissioner Littlefield. "or is the city going into the hole?"

AS TO A LITTLE MATTER OF COMPENSATION.

A lively concern for the straightness of the record and the legality of the actions of our general charter committee, as well as we confess—as a lively curiosity in the premises, prompt us to query the mayor as to what he intends to do with the warrant that will be presented him calling for payment of $150 of the city's money to Recorder J. G. Wren. This warrant will be based on the committee's action in voting that sum to Judge Wren for services as its secretary.

The commission in regular course provided that the expense of the general committee on the new charter should be taken care of out of city funds. Legal and proper, of course. Certainly a fee, or charge, for the committee secretary's services if these involve clerical work—recording, type-writing, supplying the committee with copies of intrinsic documents and the like—is also proper and a legal charge. If it were to be paid to "Citizen" Wren, secretary of the committee, what objection could or should there be? But there is, we think, objection sufficient to paying this or any other sum for any work of the committee to the individual who occupies the elective office of city recorder.

For this reason: Article 214 of section 39, of the present city charter, lays it down that "no member of the City Council or any officer of the corporation shall be directly or indirectly interested in any work, business or contract, the expense price or consideration of which is paid from the city treasury or by an assessment levied by an ordinance or resolution of the City Council."

And article 19 of the charter O. K'd by the committee and to be submitted to the people on December 29, has, in substantially the same terms, an identical inhibition—"no member of said Board (the commission) or other officer of the City of Waco," etc.

The recorder is an officer of the City of Waco, elected to office by the people. Since the expenses of the charter committee are paid out of the city treasury, we must determine that the committee's service is "work" or "business" within the meaning of charter section 39, article 214—and also within the meaning of article 19 of the proposed charter.

Surely the committee and Recorder Wren, its secretary, would not be in the position of overlooking or ignoring not only the municipal law that obtains, but the very provisions of the law they propose; nor would the commission, we are sure, wittingly violate the provisions of the charter.

Doubtless either Judge Surratt, counsel to the committee, or Mr. Maxwell, the city attorney, is better able than are we to pass on this question.

Muzzah!

The democratic majority in the United States senate is increased by one vote through the election of Blair Lee from Maryland as the successor of the late Senator Rayner—Springfield Republican.

At last in the nation's history we have a Democratic president proclaiming Thanksgiving to a Democratic party that has every reason to be thankful.

Medical journals and the press are inveighing earnestly against the unrestricted sale of poison tablets. A useful policy for, says Washington Post, "unfortunately the average bi-chloride victim swallows first and thinks afterward."

THE OTHER SIDE OF THAT PRISON STORY.

"There is cause for mortification in the seeming acceptance of truth of the charges brought by Julian Hawthorne, the writer, and his confederate in crime, Dr. W. J. Morton, that the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., is a 'hell' and the warden an unfit person," declares Cincinnati Enquirer. "Mr. Hawthorne and Dr. Morton were sent into confinement for defrauding investors in a stock swindle. Both emerged from the prison in good health, Hawthorne, it being reported by himself, having gained 30 pounds in weight. Still, the chief burden of their complaint was that the prisoners were underfed. Another attack was aimed at the system of solitary confinement for violators of prison discipline. What would they have? Should the prisoners be given their own way, even to the ordering of special diets, as in a restaurant?"

In the happily bygone past offenders against prison law were subjected to corporal punishment, and in many penitentiaries the paddle, the ducking tub and the electric "hummingbird" are preserved as barbarous relics of an ousted cruelty, the Enquirer reminds. Hawthorne and Morton did not suffer caustic punishment because they obeyed the simple code of good behavior prescribed by Warden Moyer, whose reputation as a humane penologist is beyond the power of dishonored men to tear down. Not many months ago one of the disgraced members of the Ohio senate, upon leaving the penitentiary, made the same charge of unfitness against Warden Thomas, but the state board of administration very sensibly, and, unlike Attorney General McReynolds, ignored the fellow, who was merely seeking notoriety. "There is coming to be uttered a vast amount of weird mawkishness about imprisoned criminals, and within a week a queer and cranky philosopher advanced the startling doctrine that no person should be permitted to send a malefactor to prison unless he himself had been in confinement. There is a very easy way for citizens to avoid the alleged horrors of penitentiary life, and it is by behaving themselves. When it is reflected that there are only about 1,500 persons in the Ohio penitentiary out of a population of nearly 5,000,000, it will be seen that the community is observing the rule fairly well. Mr. Hawthorne told the jury that tried him a series of untruths. So did Dr. Morton. Why should they now be believed?"

The Cotton Palace is an all-State event. Realizing this, also being possessed of the right spirit of intercity fraternalism that makes and keeps community friendship over this great State, Fort Worth's Chamber of Commerce sent a live, results-getting delegation to the Palace yesterday. The Pantheists—as Sergeant "Hip" Blackman insists on dubbing 'em in the Star-Telegram—cut a clever figure in the day's celebration; they were 12-score and more of good fellows, wide-awake business men and famers of Fort Worth. Waco and its commercial organizations were pleased with and proud of the visit. The visit should be returned—and then some—during the National Feeders and Breeders Show.

TRIBUTE TO SECRETARY HOUSTON.

"In common with most of the newspapers," says Boston Herald (Independent Republican), "the Herald has had occasion to criticize Mr. Bryan's conduct of the State Department and occasionally that of other members of the cabinet. It is with peculiar pleasure, therefore, that we can say of David F. Houston, the present Secretary of Agriculture, that he is, in the opinion of those who know, the best man ever assigned to that place since it became a cabinet office. The executive committee of the Association of College and Experiment Stations, having the welfare of scientific agriculture at heart, recently had occasion to confer with the new secretary and on their return to the hotel, in the words of one of them, 'we pinched ourselves to see if we were walking on earth!' so queer was the sensation of dealing with a secretary of agriculture who had a definite and intelligent policy, whose aims were scientific and whose grasp of the situation was comprehensive."

"Secretary Houston is establishing many great reforms," declares the Herald. "He has decided to have the department attempt nothing which the experiment stations and other state agencies can do to better advantage. This will cut out an enormous duplication of effort. The so-called 'extension work,' like the teaching of farmers by practical demonstrations, will be turned over to those agencies, local and commercial, which are ready to do it on the ground. The new secretary has no desire to cover the earth, regardless of what other agencies are doing, merely for the sake of inflating the payroll or aggrandizing the federal department."

"Dr. Houston has also reorganized the publishing system of the department, establishing a national journal of agricultural science, which will be made the vehicle of acquainting the world with the discoveries of its experimenters. He has called to his editorial service some of the ablest experts in the country. He is cutting out certain sensational endeavors, originally designed for popularizing the department, but having no place in a government-maintained institution.

"The right man in the right place. Dr. Houston's training has been most admirable. At the head of agricultural experiment stations, his meritorious work led to his selection for the presidency of Washington University at St. Louis, of which Winfield S. Chaplin, formerly of Harvard, was at an earlier period the head. And from that post Dr. Houston was last spring transferred to Washington. The department is a great scientific workshop—the largest in the world. It needed just such a man and the president is to be given the credit of finding him."

Wolfe the Florist—Mr. Tom J. Wolfe, Mr. Fred Wolfe, Miss Annie Wolfe and their associates in this concern and in the making of an exhibit that has won rare praise over the State—have the warm personal gratitude of members of the Waco Morning News staff. Their consideration and courtesy in sending boxes of their exquisite chrysanthemums to brighten the homes of the staff and gladden the hearts of wives, or mothers—or, maybe, others—are all the more appreciated for the surprise of the gift. This newspaper and other newspapers of Waco have frequently paid hearty tribute to the chrysanthemum show at the Cotton Palace, not only agreeing wholly with, but originally anticipating the commendation of their friend and fraternal worker, Col. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, of the Fort Worth Record. Colonel Fitzgerald said that the Wolfes' show "is superior to any in Texas" that he could recall; "this exhibit is worth going hundreds of miles to see. It is all due to the love of flowers and the enterprise of the single individual who has an abiding faith in his own town and is working to place it in the forefront as the City of Flowers.... Wolfe has made the chrysanthemum the queen of flowers for this Waco festival." The Wolfes have not been and are not without honor in their own community. It is good to read such a tribute from another city, but better to know that in their home there are thousands who are grateful to the Wolfes for this wondrous display. No flowers of phrasing the press might bestow possibly could glow like to the flowers the Wolfes have 'tended with pride and home loyalty, to bring to Waco's exposition its chiefest beauty.

ACTION "AT LAST."

Concluding, with most of its contemporaries, that "it is evidently the intention of the Washington administration to deal with Mexico with a firm hand at last," Springfield Leader concedes that for three years the Taft and Wilson administrations have endeavored to restore order without resorting to force. Often both Taft and Wilson "made a bluff" at Mexico, hoping that would answer all purposes and prevent an invasion of the country but Mexico has grown bold and defiant in its attitude. The peaceful attitude of Washington has been mistaken for fear by the masses, the Leader declares, while the more educated class in Mexico seem to have labored under the delusion that the great powers would antagonize the United States if any effort were made to coerce Mexico. But Mexico must know by now that the United States fully comprehends its own power and has hesitated to use it for friendly reasons and not that there ever was the slightest doubt as to the result of an armed conflict. Moreover, there never has been any serious misunderstanding between the European powers, Japan and the United States about Mexico. Europe wants peace in Mexico the same as we do, but there has been a difference of opinion as to how it could be brought about. England, which is not such a stickler for the moral side when dealing with semi-civilized countries, believed the quickest way to restore order was to recognize Huerta, which was promptly done. Yet when London saw this was not the Washington view it began making every effort to change positions as gracefully as possible. It now seems to be the British attitude that the recognition applied only up to the election time when a new condition arose.

"England and all the great powers are willing and anxious for the United States to restore peace by any method that best suits the American government. Thus if Mexico intends to try to fight the United States it will have to go it alone and it will be a sorry day for the country to the south if it adopts such a course. It will mean a rapid and crushing defeat just as quick as the army and navy can get into action and it will make the final terms all the harder for Mexico."

Properly coupled—autos and good roads.

SATISFIED WITH THE WILSON ADMINISTRATION.

Discussing the general result and general import of the Democratic victories, State and congressional, Baltimore Sun declares there is one point of unanswerable significance about the elections of November 4, so far as they indicate the attitude of the country toward the national administration, and that is that there is no evidence in any quarter of dissatisfaction with its policies or conduct.

"It would be easy to build up from the returns in this and other States a very formidable structure of evidence of positive approval," the Sun adds. "But the wonderful thing is that there is an utter absence of the popular reaction that almost always follows radical departures from established lines on important questions. When we recall what has been done in the way of positive legislation and what is frankly promised with regard to the currency, the trusts and other subjects which touch all classes of the people, it would have seemed not only natural but almost unavoidable that there should have been at least some slight counter currents of dissatisfaction perceptible in Tuesday's expression of public sentiment."

But in spite of the tariff bill and the currency bill and the desperate efforts of Republican newspapers and orators and business and bankers' associations to discredit the administration for its support of so-called radical measures, the administration is shown to be as strong everywhere as it was a year ago, and in some States, like Maryland, where it was made a direct issue, far stronger in 1913 than it was in 1912. It is the Sun's triumphant note. Had there been any doubt in the popular mind as to its efficiency or trustworthiness, that doubt would have been shown at the first opportunity. What was shown, on the contrary, was the same general confidence in its wisdom and uprightness, and in some quarters, where this question distinctly dominated the campaign, a tremendous increase in Wilson sentiment. Even in some Democratic sections of New York State which elected Republican assemblymen and local officials, the change was a virtual endorsement of the things the administration stands for, because the result was a rebuke to Tammany and all those political methods to which Mr. Wilson is unchangeably hostile. The Democratic party has every reason to be satisfied with this partial plebiscite. It is a verdict of approval of the things already done and a command to complete the program already announced.

There is no hesitation, with us there is no uncertainty regarding the propriety or the truth of our statement as to the Waco Methodists' faring at the hands of the Central Texas Conference in Temple in the matter of congregation assignments, in our desire to express our own gratification that the personnel of local pastorates is practically unchanged. We believe heartily that like gratification is strong with the Waco congregations of that denomination. The Reverends Hubert D. Knickerbocker, J. J. Creed, Ashley C. Chappell, W. T. Gray, A. D. Porter, and J. T. Bloodworth, city missionary, have done their work well and zealously. Their efforts all have been devoted to the strengthening of their churches financially and in point of community influence; their devotion to the spiritual and moral uplift of their charges is beyond question. The Rev. W. M. Bowden will be genuinely missed by Clay street church congregation; he will have the good wishes of this city in his work at Glenrose. The Rev. D. A. McGuire, who will come here from Granbury, has our cordial greeting and our hope for a tenure of a Waco pastorate that will be successful in every way. It is pleasant to be able to foretell with so much assurance of another year of appreciable advancement for the Methodist congregations of this city.

Graft Fears the Newspaper.

"Returning from Europe, William J. Burns, detective, declares that there is more graft and corruption abroad than in this country, but that it is concealed on account of the timidity of the press." Dallas Times Herald reports. As to the concealment phase of the graft proposition abroad, the noted proper put it truly—as to the rest, he at least put it adroitly. It may be gratifying to many in this land to know that they are not the chief victims of graft on the terrestrial sphere, since graft is not centralized in this land of the free. But it should be more gratifying to learn that graft has shorter shrift and harder in this country through the fearlessness of the press. So great is the power of the American press for good that thinking men must wonder if there is not more of personal significance in those senseless, sporadic proposals of censorship than appears on the surface. No right-dealing man fears the power of the press.

Texas Viewpoints.

Sound Sign of "Biz."

"When a town has four new stores and most all of the old ones have enlarged their stocks," grins Editor Joe Earls in Chilton Homeland, "you may know that town is doing some biz." And when a little town like Chilton turns out an hard-hitting, plain-dealing, wide-awake eight-pager like the Homeland, each week, and the merchants advertise therein probably about 50 per cent. as much as Homeland's service to Chilton deserves, you may give odds that the town is "bizzing" to the limit of its populace.

Ta-Ram-Ta-Ram!

Swingly and rhythmically El Paso Herald thus terminates an ed. on "Conserving the Peace": "It is an active, militant, aggressive day. It is not a day of philosophizing. Philosophizing has given way to golf. Men clear their brains so. Men give little heed to why all their doing or to its ultimate end. They are content to strive mightily. Great deeds are doing, great dreams are coming true, but much of the success of the day rides rough shod over the world. The clash of arms, the tragedy of battle is in the air." The Herald had done better to finish it with the thwack of the club on ball in the air, if it really believes philosophy has given way to golf. A degree of philosophy still is just as essential to the makeup of the man who would succeed in business or in battle as it is to the achievements of the student, the thinker in the study, the man of the laboratory. Men may clear their brains at golf, but there must be the philosophic impulse from business and life-battling to the course. Men may not think of the ultimate, but they know that if they would not hasten the ultimate they must put in good working order a modicum of philosophy concerning the results of each day's mighty striving.

Whaddye Mean, "Dirt"?

"Dirt," ambiguous Corsicana Sun, "has been broken on the Y. M. C. A., and building will now proceed." Let the Sun be prepared for a raft of queries by Texas Press concerning this startling, unparalleled instance of mud flinging. To now, the Y. M. C. A. has ever escaped calumny.

Letting Him Down "Easy."

Col. Henry Ellis devotes a column of his—as usual—clear-cut comment in Denison Herald to the fact that Weatherford Herald spiritedly rejoined in two columns "an innocent paragraph" in the Denison Herald, "respecting the death of the late Adolphus Busch, and the bequests made in his will to charity. In the paragraph it was stated in substance that the charitable bequests together with other donations made during his lifetime should be sufficient to shield the name and memory of the dead philanthropist from the fiery darts of hate and slander shot from the bows of those whose judgment was warped with prejudice and inflamed by passion by reason of the business in which he was engaged during his lifetime." The colonel says he didn't expect to provoke such an outburst as that bursted by the Herald of Weatherford. Which would indicate that the colonel's acquaintance with the Herald of Weatherford is somewhat restricted. Had the colonel affixed horns to a pen portrait of this distinguished decedent, the colonel would have been accorded a 2-column classic in commendation.

Graft Fears the Newspaper.

Callan, Precceptor.

Mique Harris of The Waco a. m. NEWS & Harvard Coll., & Claude Callan of Menard Coll., are having an argument over our language. Mique states that the word "hain't" is seldom heard in Boston, & Claude states "he ought to be if she ain't." The worst is yet to come.—Heppner Blackman, in Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

A Diversified Exposition.

There is a corn show at the Waco Cotton Palace that is worth the while. There is an auto show at machine hall that is worth the while. There is an excellent livestock show as well. These makers of the Cotton Palace exposition know how to diversify. In the vernacular of the man in the street, "They are onto their job!"—Fort Worth Record.

THOSE LOST LETTERS

THEY MAY BE TRACED USUALLY TO DEAD-LETTER OFFICE.

Improperly Addressed Envelopes and Wrappers Explain Missing Mail Which Occasions Worry.

Many millions of pieces of mail accumulated in the dead letter office of the United States postoffice department in the last year, matter that went astray because envelopes and wrappers were improperly addressed by the senders. The postoffice department is making an effort to reduce the deposits in the dead letter office to a minimum. To this end a circular letter has been addressed to the postmasters throughout the country by Daniel C. Roper, first assistant postmaster-general, a copy of which has been received by Postmaster Hoffmann.

Text of Communication.

It reads as follows: "Postmaster: 'Sir—Your active co-operation is requested in an effort to relieve the postal service of the burden imposed by the growing evil of incompletely and improperly addressed mail."

"The delivery of letters, especially in the large cities, is frequently delayed and oftentimes made impossible by the omission of an important part of the address, such as the street number, or room number when addressed to an office building. Not infrequently the name of the street is omitted, only the name of the postoffice and state being given. Another source of trouble is the practice of giving an address at the intersection of two streets without giving the location of the corner, for in some large cities a number of carriers' routes may terminate at that point or it may be the dividing line between the respective territories of the main postoffice and a station or between two stations, and in the absence of the notation 'N. E.' 'N. W.' etc., the distributors are unable to determine to which carrier the mail should be thrown."

"The increasing carelessness on the part of the public in addressing their mail is no doubt aided and abetted by the practice of the department in supplying deficient addresses and also by the exploitation in newspapers of the ability of some clerks to decipher 'treak' addresses."

Accuracy Essential.

"Postmasters should advise their patrons that complete and accurate addresses are essential to prompt mail delivery and that they should co-operate with the department to the extent of seeing that all mail originated by them bears a street number, or room number in the case of an office building, in addition to the name of the city and state. Attention should also be invited to the fact that they can be of material assistance in the education of the general public with respect to this requirement by having all stationery intended for transmission in the mails printed with their complete street or office address."

WEE DANCERS AMUSE CROWD.

Little Misses Geor Give Performance Not on the Program.

One of the pleasing features of the Cotton Palace, which was not on the program, was the dance between the two tots on the floor of the coliseum several nights ago.

Stallie C., aged 5, and Alma Lorraine, aged 2, wee daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Geer, are dancing lassies of tender years. They were at the coliseum when the bank began playing a lively air of ragtime nature and, inspired by the music, these little ones went on the floor and performed the bunny hug to the entertainment of a large audience. The little folks are pretty children, and many of the friends of the family were present and applauded the children.

GOVERNOR COX IS ARRAIGNED

Speakers at National Anti-Saloon League Convention Attack Ohio Executive.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 11.—A bitter arraignment of Governor James M. Cox of Ohio and addresses demanding the abolition of the liquor traffic be put up to congress, engaged the attention of the anti-saloon league at its national meeting here today.

Rev. A. P. Baker, general superintendent of the organization, attacked Governor Cox after denouncing that Ohio had sullied her good name by adopting a liquor license law. Dr. Baker continued: "If the liquor people do not pension the present governor, James M. Cox, upon his retirement from office for life, they ought to be prosecuted for criminal ingratitude. He has been one of the best friends the liquor traffickers in Ohio ever had."

"Governor Cox has succeeded in hammering into form the liquor license law, what is probably destined to be the most corrupt political machine this state has ever seen."

Several thousand persons in the audience cheered the addresses of speakers who declared that an amendment to the national constitution is the proper means of securing nationwide prohibition.

How I Darkened My Gray Hair

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe That She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair.

For years I tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the prepared dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction and they were all expensive. I finally ran into a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows, to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and 1-4 oz. of glycerine. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but remove dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp. You can prepare it at home at very little expense.

FAT STOCK SHOW BOOSTERS
ENLIVEN COTTON PALACE
AND WACO.

LED BY MAYOR "BOB" MILAM

Business Men Give Visitors a Rousing
Reception and There's Something Doing Every Minute.

Waco and Central Texas had two invitations to the Fort Worth Fat Stock show and the Fort Worth horse show yesterday, one invitation being delivered at the dinner given by the Waco Rotary club to the Fort Worth Rotary club, W. B. Paddock being the spokesman, and the other invitation being delivered in the coliseum at the Cotton Palace, Mayor "Bob" Milam of Fort Worth on this occasion being the spokesman.

It was a jolly crowd of several hundred that reached Waco via the Intercolonial and Great Northern at 1:15 o'clock. John F. Henderson, division superintendent of the Southwestern Telegraph and Telephone company, was grand marshal of the party, and was the first man off the train. He landed on both feet with hands outstretched to shake hands with his Waco friends who were in the Waco reception committee, and then a parade was formed.

Two Bands in Line.
Leading the parade was Alexander's band, and the Fort Worth band came later in line. The Fort Worth boosters who came as the representatives of the Jobbers and Manufacturers league, formed a column of two, and took up the line of march from the union depot to Austin avenue. Fire Chief A. M. Prescott was on hand with all the apparatus of the Waco fire department and these were paraded, following the visitors. The parade moved on Austin avenue to the rooms of the Young Men's Business league. The Fort Worth visitors all wore purple and white pennants. At the rooms of the Young Men's Business league there was a greeting and the visitors were taken in hand by the local people and were taken to lunch. In the party were thirty-five members of the Fort Worth Rotary club and these went to the New State House for lunch with the Waco club. The Fort Worth party divided the day between boosting and sightseeing and departed for home at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Routing Reception.
Undoubtedly the most cordial reception ever tendered a delegation from the Jobbers and Manufacturers league of Fort Worth in all of their trade excursions was in this city, where, under the auspices of the Young Men's Business league, co-operated with by the city government and citizens, a parade, headed by Alexander's band, the fire department, led by the big red automobile of A. M. Prescott, chief of the department since time that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, marched from the International and Great Northern station up Fourth street to Austin, thence to the headquarters of the Young Men's Business league.

After reaching the headquarters of the young city boosters, the parade divided to get lunch. It had been intended by the Fort Worth men that the visitors each hustle for himself, but few of them there were but were taken in charge by some Waco booster and shown the sights of the city, including a good meal.

Plans of the Fort Worth boosters had been to refuse any complimentary tickets to the Cotton Palace and, though the Waco boosters and the management of the Cotton Palace contemplated furnishing tickets, such offers were declined with thanks.

Two hours had been the time assigned to stop in Waco, after which the special was to proceed to Marlin, but when once the visitors got to the Cotton Palace grounds but a small proportion of them had any desire for further travel.

However, to comply with the schedule, the train was operated to Marlin with the band and perhaps fifty others from Fort Worth.

When the proposition to organize a parade to visit Waco and boost for the National Feeders and Breeders show and horse show at Fort Worth, November 22 to 29, it was hoped that 100 could be gotten together for that purpose. Soon, however, it was seen that 100 would be too easy and the mark was set at 250.

That, too, proved the easy, for when the special pulled out of Fort Worth Tuesday morning more than 250 were aboard.

Stops of twenty minutes each were made at Italy and Merona and headed by Elchery's Roorley band of twenty-four pieces, the streets were paraded.

Each member of the party was supplied with a big purple pennant showing a Panther lying down and in large white letters, the words "Fort Worth Boosters." Each booster was furnished a small cane and pennant by the stock show. This pennant was white and in green letters were the following: "National Feeders and Breeders Show, Fort Worth, November 22-29," the scheme being the colors of the stock show.

All Aboard.
It is doubtful if Tarrant county or the city of Fort Worth did much official business Tuesday, for the majority of the county and city commissioners were absent the special.

County Clerk Lon Beavers also was "among those present" and to advertise Fort Worth he distributed miniature marriage licenses across the face of which was printed in red letters, "Come to Fort Worth to get married."

The special train was in charge of Trainmaster E. C. Goforth and City Passenger Agent E. P. Junkin of Fort Worth, and contrary to the usual procedure for such specials, the schedule was observed to the minute until a short distance from Waco, where it dropped back a few minutes.

Clamorous Welcome.
On arriving at Waco the visitors were dumbfounded at the reception, as for more than two blocks in each direction from the depot were automobiles, decorated floats and every piece of apparatus in the Waco fire department.

When the special stopped the fire engines commenced whistling, engines at gas, factories and other enterprises in the neighborhood joined in and locomotive engineers found the enthusiasm contagious and began "wasting steam." Added to this was the ringing of bells on the fire apparatus not equipped with whistles and the noise from dozens of kinds of automobile horns.

Boosters at Lunch.
After the parade to the center of the city the boosters had lunch and proceeded to the Cotton Palace grounds. Tuesday was Young Men's Business league day, Conanche day, Hamilton day and Austin day, by special decree of W. H. Hoffmann, president of the Cotton Palace association.

When the visitors reached the Cotton Palace they made a day of it. They visited the various exhibits on the grounds, saw the big chrysanthemum show, and went from one of the places of interest to another. Then the party organized a march through the main hall, led by the Fort Worth band. The march led into the coliseum and with all Fort Worth folks in line there was a parade on the coliseum dancing floor.

Bob Milam Speaks.
After this Mayor Bob Milam of Fort Worth made an address inviting the Waco people to Fort Worth.

"When we first heard of the Cotton Palace," he said, "we thought it was a place where the livestock show, the Dallas fair or the Abilene fair, but we have come here to find it a big thing, something entitled to all kinds of attention from all parts of the state. We are glad to be among you; we appreciate the efforts you have made and we congratulate Waco on being in the city class. We have come to tell you of the great livestock exhibition which we will have at Fort Worth, which opens November 22 and to which you are all invited. To show you how we have grown, we have brought two representatives."

"Here is the Show."
"Here is the Fort Worth show in 1909," he trotted out a lad about 3 1/2 feet in height, on whom was a banner labeled "Fat Stock Show, 1909." He then said: "Here is the fat stock show today," and he presented to the crowd a man in a suit who wore a label, "Fat Stock Show in 1913." "That is how we have grown," said Mayor Milam. "Come and see us."

State Meeting to Be Held in Fort Worth Next February or March, Date to Be Fixed Later.

It was 1:30 o'clock when the members of the Fort Worth Rotary club sat down to dinner yesterday at the New State House as guests of the Waco Rotarians, covers being laid for sixty-seven. John C. Ray, vice president of the Waco club, was toastmaster for the occasion.

Secretary C. G. Sneed was the first speaker, and made an address of welcome to the visitors. He spoke much of the sentiment of Rotarianism in his words of welcome, said that Waco was a new club and it was its first effort at entertaining, but he wanted every visitor to know the cordial good feeling that exists.

W. B. Paddock Responds.
W. B. Paddock was called on to respond for Fort Worth. He said: "The cordial welcome expressed is typical of Waco, as I have known Waco for many years; and I want to say here that I will match Waco against any city in America for hospitality. Your hearts beat as warm here for your friends as they did when I tripped the light fantastic with your girls of years ago. We have been reading about your Cotton Palace and hearing about it, and we have come now to see it; we are pleased at your growth, at your high buildings completed and your buildings in course of erection, and Fort Worth is glad to be with you. We have come to tell you our livestock exposition and horse show—a livestock exposition that is second to none in this land and a horse show that yields first place only to Madison Square Garden, and we say to you now that Madison Square Garden may well look to her laurels. We want you to visit us at that time; we want you to join with us in enjoying the gaieties that will be provided and we will give you cordial greetings."

Punkett of Dallas Replies.
Lewin Punkett of Dallas was the next speaker. He said that he still claims Waco as his home, as it was here that he was a boy at school with Louis Crow and at Sunday school with other fellows. He recalled the fact that of the first Cotton Palace in 1893 he was secretary and W. W. Seley was treasurer, and he recounted how it was that at a meeting when the movement for the first Cotton Palace was wavering that Mr. Seley got up and doubled his subscription, and the enthusiasm of the moment carried others into the financial assistance that resulted in success. He said he was glad to be here on this occasion, and then he made a strong talk on Rotarianism, telling the purposes of the order which so strongly unite men who belong to the organization.

James Hays Quarles Greets 'Em.
James Hays Quarles was the next speaker from the Waco club. He gave a cordial greeting to his former friends of Fort Worth, where he lived for a number of years, and expressed pleasure at being one of those to entertain the visitors. He paid a tribute to the pluck, energy, vim, vigor and vitality of the people of Fort Worth which resulted in bringing railroads to that town many years ago, and spoke pleasantly of Capt. R. B. Paddock, father of the spokesman of the Fort Worth delegation, who had been one of the pioneers in the development work of Fort Worth. Mr. Quarles recalled the days of the building of the packing houses in Fort Worth that resulted

Mr. Quarles recalled the days of the building of the packing houses in Fort Worth that resulted from a movement of the enterprising people there in bringing to the southwest the millions of investment.

Tribute to Fort Worth.

Then he described the Cotton Palace as they would see it, said that to Fort Worth belonged the livestock show because Fort Worth is the livestock market of the southwest—to Dallas belongs the state fair because it has been built there by pluck and energy, but that the logical location of the Cotton Palace was in Waco because within a radius of 100 miles of Waco is produced more than one-third of the cotton of the state, and within that radius live one-third of the people of Texas; that the railroad rates to Waco are an advantage to mercantile interests here, and it would do well for Fort Worth to study the interests here.

Burkes Served a Term, Here.

H. C. Burkes of Fort Worth of the Texas Power and Light company was called on and at once owned up to a former residence in Waco; a term or two at the Columbus school and later at the Central high school, and said that he considered that the training he got in Waco and the foundation that was given him here is what has made him find success in his new home in Fort Worth. He said that Fort Worth is looking for a visit from Waco and that Wacoans would be welcome.

B. W. Alexander was the next speaker. He is a member of the Cleburne Rotary club, and he said he appreciated the courtesies shown him in Waco and that he hoped to have the Waco people with him on some occasion. He told of the growth of the Cleburne club, which started with three or five members a few months ago and now has twenty-four, and that plans are making to entertain the Fort Worth club at Cleburne Wednesday night, with C. G. Sneed and A. H. Bell of the Waco club as special guests. The Cleburne club is now working to get a county hospital for Johnson county.

and he said the election had been ordered due to the efforts of the club.

Shelton's Happy Speech.

A. B. Vera, secretary of the Fort Worth club, was called on and declined in favor of J. F. Shelton. Mr. Shelton made a happy speech. He said that he had occasion to know something of the enterprise of Waco, as he has done business with Waco people, and he knows of the progress being made here. He expressed his pleasure at being a guest on this occasion.

Bismark Hoyer of Fort Worth, state secretary of the Rotary organization, made a speech in which he forecast a state meeting to be held later in Fort Worth at which the state organization would take up the movement to build the Adams monument at San Antonio, which will be the highest monument in the country, but that plans for this work would be outlined later.

After this the luncheon adjourned.

State Directors Meet.

Later a meeting of the state directory of the Rotary clubs was held, there being in attendance Lewin Punkett, president; Bismark Hoyer, secretary; B. W. Alexander of Cleburne; S. T. Hanley of Dallas and A. H. Bell of Waco.

It was decided to call a state meeting in Fort Worth to be held in Fort Worth in February or March, the date to be selected later by Fort Worth, at which time plans will be formed for organizing a state association to affiliate with the international association.

At the Top in its Class.
Al G. Field's "Greatest Minstrels" is greater than before. The production they're in is the best ever in its class. Bert Swor is not forgetting that he is sometime of Dallas—again he has the goods and the catch. Greater praise than this would Field's aggregation not have been W. P. Eaton sent to hear and look in for an evening's enjoyment, and Mr. Winter would not say as much.
If there's anything more modest and less self-appreciative than a poster for a minstrel show or a musical comedy, it's the program head. It has been written above that Field's "Greatest Minstrels" are really greater. The program would bid the audience prepare for a "sumptuous scenic spectacle." The writer will not only concede Mr. Field the truth of this artistic alliteration, but will even permit him, with truth bounding the addition, to tack "superlatively" at the fore of the program inscription.
Indeed, the settings for this production—Panama, patriotic, panoramic and pleasing—are feature number 1. Costuming and fittings generally are an enormous with the brilliancy of the spectacle staged in representation of the isthmus, its forests and streams and volcanoes, and with men of war passing through, its military camps. Electrical effects are original and vivid. The S. S. Banner and Harry Fillman contribute pleasantly to the generous portions of melody and mirth. For something more than 150 minutes there were hearty laughter and as hearty applause in the Auditorium last night. And who would ask for a surer sign that Field's funmakers and Field's stage pictures are tip-top entertainment?

Palatial, but Not the Palace.

"I don't see why they call it a Cotton Palace, because I can't see where there's any cotton about it," said a lanky stranger Tuesday afternoon as he reared back, hands on hips, and scrutinized the Amicable building.
The man's name was Williams, and he came from near South Bosque. He said it had been about seven years since he last visited Waco and at that time there was no Cotton Palace, but that he had read much about it lately in the papers, and wanted to come see it, but it was so large, he explained, that as he didn't get here on the day it opened, he wouldn't get to see every floor. Mr. Williams was taken in charge by the newshy.

DOLLARS IS FOR IMPROVEMENTS

COMMISSIONER REFUSES, HOWEVER,
TO COMPEL BETTER TELEPHONE SERVICE.

LITTLEFIELD FAVORS AN INQUIRY

Mayor Mackey Explains Difficulties
Under Which Hello Lines Operate and Matter Is Dropped.

Commissioner Littlefield at the meeting of the city commissioners yesterday, moved that the city attorney be instructed to draw up an ordinance requiring the telephone companies of the city to give better service, but after a general discussion the majority of the commissioners appeared opposed to the motion, and it was lost for want of a second.

In this connection, Commissioner Caulfield stated that he had talked to matter over with J. B. Earle, of the Brazos Valley Telephone and Telegraph company, who admitted that "the service is not as good as it ought to be, but that it is impossible to give complete satisfaction under the present conditions."

Suggests an Inquiry.
Commissioner Littlefield suggested that the commission resolve itself into an inquisitorial body, and take evidence in the matter before passing any ordinance. "The exaggerations of complaints that usually float about the streets," said Commissioner Littlefield, "are so great that I think it would be unwise to take action without more deliberate investigation of the defects complained of."

Mayor Mackey said: "The managers of both companies have been brought before us several times and they responded as promptly as possible to every request that we have made of them. All the extensions asked for by citizens have been granted. When there was delay, the work has been carried out promptly as soon as it was brought to the company's attention. The recent spells of bad weather have caused great damage, and I am informed that it is impossible at any cost to get enough skilled labor here to handle the emergencies. We ought not bring the managers up for more public reprimands until we are assured that complaints are not receiving adequate attention."

Commissioner Caulfield said that his own service had improved greatly in the past few weeks.
Doing the Best They Can.
Mayor Mackey said that every bad spell throws 300 to 1,000 telephones out of use. "We can't expect them to repair all these at once," he said. "They are doing the best they can, in my opinion, and it does not help any to keep jumping on them."

Commissioner Caulfield said that he was convinced the companies were both doing their best under the circumstances to give satisfactory service.

Commissioner Foster gave it as his opinion that attention was given promptly whenever the complaints were properly made.

BLIND MAN SLASHER

W. D. PITTS, PENCIL PEDDLER,
STABS J. P. HONEY IN SAVAGE FIGHT.

Injured Man Is Taken to Sanitarium.

His Wounds Are Serious—The Blind Slasher's Story.

Although bereft of his vision, W. D. Pitts, blind pencil peddler on the streets, is said to have used a knife with serious effect in a fight, which occurred on the City Hall square yesterday afternoon.

The victim of the sightless man's weapon, J. P. Honey, well known about town, is lying in a private sanitarium with four wounds in the body. Two of the stabs are of such nature as to be dangerous. The most serious is a three and a half inch cut which entered the chest, passing through the pleural cavity, cutting the pericardium, or covering of the heart, scraping the lung and passing through to the abdominal cavity just over the liver.

Ribs Are Slashed.
This wound also severed the sixth and seventh ribs. Another two and a half inch stab in the center of the chest, just below the cavity. A third just below the left nipple line entered as far as the ribs, and a fourth is a wound over the left kidney. This last wound is between three and a half and four inches in length. It severed the tenth rib, but did not enter the cavity.

His Condition Serious.
Honey is in a serious condition, according to a statement of attending physician. He lost a great deal of blood, and this coupled with the shock may prove fatal. The physician says there is a chance for his recovery.

So far Honey is in no condition to make a statement. According to Pitts' statement the affair was brought about from a trifling matter.
Prisoner's Statement.
In the county jail, where he was confined following his arrest by the police, he made the following statement: "I was standing talking to a man about collecting a debt which some one owed him, when Honey came up. Honey told the man not to let me collect the money, as every nickel I got hold of I spent for beer. I made some short remark and he walked off. A few minutes later he came back and asked me what I said. I told him it was a lie about me spending all the money I got for beer. He struck me. I said I don't tell what was going to happen, so I began cutting."

Pitts said he got Honey down after a scuffle.
Has Lived Here a Year.
The blind man lived on Cotton Belt street. He refused to give the number when asked for it by a reporter last night. He said he had been in Waco a year, that he made his living selling pencils on the street. When arrested Pitts' small boy was with him. The boy accompanied his father to jail and was later sent home.

The knife used was a strong sharp pocket knife. The officers have it as evidence. A charge of aggravated assault and battery has been placed against Pitts.

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

SALTS, CALOMEL, PILLS, ACT ON BOWELS LIKE PEPPER ACTS IN NOSTRILS.

Get a 10-cent box now.
Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses, as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS EXHIBIT

Women Attracted in Large Number to Lectures and Demonstrations Given by Miss Rich.

The lectures and demonstrations of Miss Jessie P. Rich at the University of Texas exhibit continue to be one of the interesting features of the afternoon program at the Cotton Palace. Fifty or sixty ladies attend each of these lectures.

"Candy Making" was the subject discussed by Miss Rich Tuesday afternoon. Miss Rich spoke in part as follows:

"The different stages of sugar cooking in candy making are soft ball, hard ball, crack, and crack. The sugar and water boiled together reaches the soft ball stage when a portion dropped into cold water can be gathered up with the fingers into a soft ball. The hard stage is reached when the portion tested forms a firm, compact ball. At the crack stage, the portion tested becomes slightly brittle and can no longer be molded into a ball. In other words, it is the point at which the candy first becomes snappy. The hard crack is the stage at which the portion tested becomes hard and brittle."

After the Hard Crack.

"After the hard crack stage is passed the syrup gradually changes color, becoming first light yellow, then yellow, brown and finally a deep red. These represent the different stages of caramelization. At the last stage the sugar has lost its sweet taste and is used for coloring and flavoring. At the immediate stage it is used for flavoring ice creams and custards."

"These different stages may be easily determined by the use of the thermometer, the soft ball stage being 236 to 242 degrees Fahrenheit; the hard ball stage 254 degrees; the crack stage 260 to 275 degrees; the hard crack stage 290 degrees; the caramel stage 300 to 350 degrees. The object is to prevent the recrystallization of the sugar or to insure its formation in minute crystals that the candy may be creamy. This may be brought about by the inverting of a portion of the sugar either by a long boiling with the addition of at least half as much liquid as sugar or by the addition of an acid such as citric, acetic, lemon juice or cream of tartar, a second by melting the sugar at a high temperature with no addition of liquid."

Value of Sugar as Food.
According to a bulletin issued by the United States department of agriculture, the value of sugar as a food as a food for muscular work, except as follows:

1. When the organism is adapted to the digestion of starch and there is sufficient time for its utilization sugar has no advantage over starch as a food for muscular work, because a preventive of fatigue, or covering of the heart, scraping the lung and passing through to the abdominal cavity just over the liver.

2. In small quantities and in not too concentrated form, sugar will take the place of weight for weight of starch as a food for muscular work, because the difference in energy and in time required to digest them, sugar having here the advantage.

3. It furnishes the needed carbohydrate material to organisms that have as yet little or no power to digest starch. Thus milk-sugar is a part of the natural food for the infant.

4. In times of great exertion or exhausting labor, the rapidity with which it is assimilated gives it certain advantages over starch. This latter quality which renders it rapidly available for muscle force may account for the fact that sugar is so relished by people who are doing muscular work, and those of very active habits as children.

Makes Face Young—Tightens Love Ties

("Aurilia" in Woman's Sphere.)
A fretful expression, a wrinkled face and a faded complexion, do more to drive the male members from home than is commonly supposed. It was one of my greatest difficulties to appear smiling, fresh and elegant when my dear ones were with me. But I have overcome all that. I have changed my mental attitude and I now find it second nature to look cheerful. This treatment recommended by a friend, my appearance has so improved I look fifteen years younger than before. A simple face lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered ascorbic acid in a half-pint of water, proved a wonderful wrinkle-chaser. I still use this occasionally. To renovate my complexion I purchased an ounce of ordinary mercerized wax at my druggist's and before using this up, a marvelous transformation had taken place. It was like removing an ugly mask, revealing a new face, a youthful complexion of distinctive delicacy, clear, white and velvety. I merely applied the wax like cold cream before retiring, washing it off mornings. Ten days' treatment sufficed.

R. L. Brooks Goes to Trial.
Pleads Unwritten Law in Dallas Court, But Case Will Be Tried.

Dallas, Nov. 11.—For the first time in the history of Dallas county courts where a defendant killed a woman and pleaded the unwritten law, a case went to trial Monday. It was the case in which R. L. Brooks is defendant, charged with the murder of his wife on October 4. That the plea is the unwritten law was clearly established today in the cross-examination of the state's witnesses by attorneys for the defendant.

The case is being hard fought. Testimony of the state introduced today showed that on the night of the killing he went to the home of his wife, called for her, then fired two shots into her body. She died instantly. Indications are that several days will be required in the trial of the case.

Packing Co. Vs. Santa Fe.
Belton, Tex., Nov. 11.—The case of the Texas Packing company of Temple vs. the Santa Fe railroad, is on trial in the District court here this week and will consume several days.

W. T. Besonnette, president of the company, resides at Waco, but was a citizen of Temple when the circumstances occurred over which the suit started. Besonnette alleges that owing to application of improper refrigeration methods several cars of dressed turkeys shipped by his company to northern markets over the line of defendant company, spoiled en route and as damages for the amount of $14,000. Besides, these lenses perform greater work for the wearer. They exclude the ultra violet rays, which are an injurious to the eyes, and at the same time allow the light rays to be transmitted to the retina, giving perfect, clear vision—and also restful vision. ## ACTION ON ROAD SYSTEM TODAY

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS' COURT WILL ACCEPT OR REJECT RECOMMENDATIONS.

FARWELL HEIGHTS REPUDIATED

Commissioners Take the Stand That the Projected Improvements Concern Waco Only.

As a special order of business, the county commissioners court at 10 o'clock this morning will go into a discussion relative to the recommendations made by County Road Superintendent R. J. Windrow, looking to a change in the road system.

Some action, either the acceptance of the recommendations as a whole or in part, or the rejection of them, is expected. Mr. Windrow's recommendations covering briefly the present system will propose changes which he considers necessary to place the road system on a business basis, were submitted to the commission Monday. Action was deferred until this morning and it is expected this will be the principal order of business today.

Routine Business Yesterday.
Yesterday's meeting was principally routine. A number of traction engine agents were before the board and a visit was made to a local hardware concern to inspect an engine of this type. Commissioners Moseley and Willenborg are contemplating purchasing a tractor for use in their districts. They will go to Mart some time this week to inspect an engine now at work in that place.

Puts It Up to the City.
The commission refused to bear any of the expense incident to changing the street in Farwell Heights, application for which change was made Monday. The city had agreed to pay half the cost and the property owners had asked the county to bear a portion of the expense. After inspecting the street the county board decided as the street was within the city limits it was not a question for the county.

Better Matter Referred.
E. W. Marshall and others came before the board yesterday, asking that the county participate in the expense of constructing a storm sewer at Twenty-first and Austin streets, to care for overflow water. The location is on the city limits. The matter was referred to the road superintendent for an opinion as to cost.

Application of R. J. McIntyre for $25 as payment of a glandered horse which was killed, was reduced to $5 and this amount allowed.

Report of F. E. McClain, delinquent tax collector for the month of October, was accepted.

SCHOOL ROOMS CROWDED.

"We Must Have More Buildings," Brazelton Tells Commission.
"Although additions were made to all the school buildings last year," said W. R. Brazelton before the city commission yesterday, "we now have more pupils than ever before, and the buildings are crowded till children are hanging out the windows. We must have more bonds, and more buildings." The school bonds will be submitted along with the sewer, bridge and other bonds for which preparations are now being made.

McGUIRE BREAKS IN INVESTIGATION

CONFESSES HAVING SENT TELEGRAM TO HENNESSY RELATIVE TO CONTRIBUTIONS.

WHITMAN THREATENS PERJURY

District Attorney's Stern Methods Cause Collapse of Witness Who Becomes Hysterical.

New York, Nov. 11.—Geo. H. McGuire of Syracuse, who denied under oath last Thursday that he had sent a telegram to John A. Hennessy, former Governor of New York, today admitted he was the author of the telegram.

A threat of indictment for perjury was hanging over him when the admission fell from his lips and he left the witness stand almost in a state of collapse.

A physician was called to attend him. McGuire was testifying for the second time in the John Doe inquiry instituted by District Attorney Whitman into Hennessy's charges that contractors on state work had been "sandbagged" in making campaign contributions to Tammany Hall. Hennessy has testified that he obtained most of his information from McGuire and that the latter had sent him a telegram from Syracuse signed "M" setting forth that Wm. H. Kelly, democratic leader of Onondaga county, had been helping Arthur A. McLean, treasurer of the democratic state committee, to "shake down" state highway contractors. McGuire last Thursday unequivocally denied that he had anything to do with the telegram.

Today District Attorney Whitman sent before the grand jury three witnesses who contradicted McGuire's testimony. One of these was Miss Ollie Collier, a stenographer in McGuire's office; another was a typewriter expert who examined a typewriter brought from McGuire's office. The stenographer testified it is understood that the machine was one which McGuire himself frequently used and the expert declared that letters of the original telegram corresponded with the letters on the machine.

McGuire was informed at his hotel of the contemplated action of the district attorney against him and soon afterwards his friends telephoned Mr. Whitman saying he had collapsed. They asked Mr. Whitman what he would promise "if McGuire told the truth."

Would Promise Nothing.
The district attorney replied that he would promise nothing, but that McGuire would be indicted for perjury if he did not tell the truth.

McGuire was shown the original of the telegram when he took the stand and was asked if he had written it. "Yes," said the witness, "I have refrained from mentioning it in my testimony. Mr. Whitman then questioned McGuire regarding a conversation with Hennessy in Utica at which, according to the graft investigation, McGuire gave him a list of contractors who had been secured by Hennessy Thursday the witness denied having given Hennessy this information.

McGuire was growing visibly nervous. "As I remember it," he said, "my testimony as to that was correct."

At this point his attorney, former Federal District Attorney Henry A. Wise, who said he had been retained last Thursday to appear before the hearing began today, requested Magistrate McAdoo for an adjournment until Thursday. He explained that his client had suffered "an utter physical and mental collapse" and was not in condition to go on as early as planned. The request was granted after Mr. Wise had taken the witness into an adjoining room where McGuire became hysterical, it was said.

He was proceeded on the stand by Eugene D. Woods, who told the jury from whom Hennessy said he got his alleged information that Edward E. McCall, defeated Tammany candidate for mayor, paid for his nomination as supreme court justice in 1902.

Wood stated that the first part of Hennessy's story and swore that all the things Hennessy had charged the latter had told him and that he had not told them to Hennessy.

A KIDNEY REMEDY THAT HAS THOUSANDS OF FRIENDS

I believe Dr. Kilmer & Company of Binghamton, N. Y., manufacture one of the best medicines for the kidneys, liver and blood, called "Swamp-Root," ever produced, and I take pleasure in recommending it to others.

After trying several remedies for the kidneys and liver trouble, which apparently had taken on chronic form, I was urged to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a fair trial and wrote for a trial bottle, which was promptly mailed to my address. I was so well pleased with the action of the remedy that I purchased it in five bottle lots and continued taking the remedy until I was fully satisfied that my kidneys and liver were restored to a healthy condition.

Prior to accepting this remedy I was almost daily afflicted with hemorrhage from the nose which physicians were unable to check or prescribe a remedy for unquestionably caused by the condition of my kidneys, my heart at times affected, my stomach and other organs in sympathy, all of which have been completely restored to a normal condition. I weigh fifteen pounds more than I did three years ago, the result of complying with the printed directions found with a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

I have been in the railway service for the past forty-two years and have been a resident of this city for the past twenty-three years.

Very truly yours,
E. B. PITNEY.

325 West Patten St., Paxton, Illinois.
Personally appeared before me this 27th day of June, 1912, Mr. E. B. Pitney, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

ONE CHANGE IN BILL

WILSON WILL PROBABLY CONSENT TO ELIMINATION OF "OTHER LAWFUL MONEY."

Administration Senators Refuse to Meet With Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Declining to meet with the senate banking and currency committee pending action on the currency bill by the democratic conference called for tomorrow, the four "administration" committee members today continued the preparation of their report to the conference. Other committee members moved to adjourn until Thursday morning to await the outcome of the conference.

The administration senators, Owen, Hollis, Pomeroy and Shafroth, will present to the conference their version of what the president will accept in the way of currency legislation. They will report the administration bill as it passed the house. It is expected, with but a single important amendment. The other changes will be alterations of phraseology calculated to correct evident errors or to make the meaning clear. It is understood that the president is willing to yield one important change, for which there has been widespread demand, the elimination of the words "or lawful money" from the redemption section of the bill making the proposed new currency redeemable only in gold.

The republican members of the committee decided to await the action of the caucus before taking any affirmative steps, but they are planning a report to the senate which will recommend a measure on the general lines of the Glass bill.

They will include, however, the amendments which the senate committee adopted providing for not more than four regional banks, to be publicly owned and controlled, by the government as opposed to the administration plan for bank-owned and bank-controlled regional banks.

WACO FIRMS ARE SWINDLED $1,000

"CERTIFIED CHECKS" CASHED BY SMOOTH STRANGER ARE ALL BOGUS.

SO FAR AS KNOWN, GOT $1,000

Citizens' National Bank of Ennis, Whose Forms the Crook Used, Repudiates Paper.

At least half a dozen Waco business men and merchants have within the last week been the victims of one of the smoothest check forgers that ever operated in this section, losing altogether more than a thousand dollars.

The checks are all made payable to H. J. Martin or order, and are certified by the Citizens National bank of Ennis, the certificates, of course, being bogus. They are dated October 30, and run from number 3200 to 3206. They are all signed Charles C. Hogan, who, it is specified in one corner of the checks, is proprietor of the Midland Bottling Works at Ennis.

Six Checks in Evidence.
Four of the checks are for $150, the other two for $200 each. Although only six checks have been reported, there are rumors of several more that were not made known unless the forger is caught, because the parties bunched do not care for any publicity whatever in the matter unless there is chance of convicting the man who passed the checks.

His Modus Operandi.
In one case the forger went to a store where bicycles are sold, bought a bicycle and gave for it one of his certified checks signed by Hogan. The check being for about five times the cost of the bicycle, he requested that he be given a check for his change as, he stated, he did not need the money. The check was given him and he immediately went to another store, cashed the check and at the same time cashed one of his $150 bogus checks, No. 3202. The bicycle he purchased he directed to be sent to Temple, which was done, and it is still there, waiting for some one to claim it, but at the same time being watched by two detectives.

Gives His Name as "Martin."
Martin, or the man going by that name, having bought a bicycle on the same day went into a book store to buy a typewriter, giving him a check payable monthly for the machine, later in the day he came in and took up the notes, as, he explained, he had just received a check from Ennis from a man who owed him $150, the check being certified was of course acceptable, and the book store was directed to hold the machine until the next day, when he was to have rented an office to put his $80 machine in. The next afternoon, the machine still waiting for Martin, the book store was called i over long distance telephone by the bank of Ennis, explaining that the check was a forgery.

The police and county authorities have been notified of the victims, but up to this time no trace has been found of the forger.

BREAD BAKERS TO THE FRONT

Ladies of Culinary Department Will Receive Entries of Bread, Rolls, Biscuit Today.

This morning at 11 o'clock the ladies of the culinary division will assemble at the Cotton Palace to receive entries of bread, rolls and biscuits in this division. The time for bringing these displays will close at 2:30 and Miss Gross urgently requests all exhibitors to come as early as possible after the opening hour named, so that all facility may be made in the placing of the exhibits and the awarding of the prizes.

Fruit Put Up By the Blind.
Miss Ada Thorne, while visiting the north this summer, secured a very interesting exhibit from the John School of Chicago, an institute for the blind. The display consists of various fruits put up in jars by the sightless pupils of the school in the domestic science department. The exhibition is in the culinary division at the Cotton Palace, under the direction of Miss Esther Gross.

SALT'S FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to such clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folk who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

JONES, PRIZE WINNER

HE PUT THE QUESTION TO JUST ONE GIRL, THE RIGHT ONE.

When Miss van Boddie Admitted Identity, He Couldn't Realize His Good Luck, and Disappeared.

L. R. Jones is a rather bashful young man, and he did not enter into the spirit of Y. M. B. L. enthusiastically. While others were chasing about the Cotton Palace park last night looking for a "Mysterious Woman," who would deliver $25 in good, hard cash to him or her who would say certain words, he wandered on the Warpath and looked at the show.

There were a lot of girls there, but every one looked mysterious to him, and then again, he had not been introduced. So he left it to the bold and the forward ones to approach each girl and put the question.

Jones, He "Bucks Up." But finally Mr. Jones plucked up courage to ask just one girl, and he was chosen in his selection. He smiled a fair and pretty lass, whose brown frock was draped and fashioned just to the latest mode, and who was nonchalantly looking about at the various exhibits, and talking light things of current comment with her escort. Approaching her, rather backward even in his boldness, he said, "You are the Y. M. B. L. representative."

"I am," said Miss Frances van Boddie. "What is your name?" "Jones," he answered, and then he fled.

The fact of the matter he did not really know that he had struck it rich. He rather thought some one was stringing him, and the prospect with which the pretty girl admitted her identity startled him. It was some time before "Jones" could be located. The crowd was thick with Joneses of various initials and designations, and there was some hunt for him to get him before the crowd in the Coliseum. But finally he was located, and Harry M. Baines, as master of ceremonies, presented Mr. Jones and Miss Frances van Boddie to the assembled crowd.

Many Just Missed It. Miss van Boddie played her part to perfection. She made a tour of the park during the evening, wandered here and there and everywhere, and listened for the magic words. It was necessary to say them just as they were said by Jones. "You are the Y. M. B. L. representative," to get the prize. A lot of folks addressed her, but they did not say it just right. The words were twisted as they fell upon her listening ear; they were transposed as they were spoken, and for several hours there was no one who said them right.

She Was His Only Choice. And Mr. Jones addressed both the one young woman during the entire evening. She was the only one to whom he put the question.

Many of those who were in the quest for the "mysterious" stood on the bridge entering the park, proper and asked every lady who entered the place; others asked every one whom they saw in the Coliseum.

After the prize was won, Miss van Boddie and W. V. Crawford, president of the Young Men's Business League, led the grand march of the trade ball.

STRIKERS CONFER.

Tell of Shares in Killing Automobile Party. Trinidad, Colo., Nov. 11.—Six members of the party of strikers accused of the murder of four members of an automobile party en route from Layeta to Oakview Saturday afternoon have made detailed confessions, according to reports received today by Adjutant General Chase from Major Townsend at Walsenburg.

Charles Sheppard, a striker, implicated by the five prisoners who confessed yesterday, was arrested at Layeta and brought to Walsenburg early today. Sheppard admitted his complicity in the shooting, according to the militia authorities.

A WONDERFUL PAINTING.

The mysterious painting, "The Shadow of the Cross," is exhibited at the Cotton Palace, lower floor, southwest corner main building. This world famous picture, wherever it has been exhibited, has created a furore among the art loving and religious people and justly, too, as it is well worth going one hundred miles to see. Seen in the light, the painting reveals an unfinished full length painting of the Christ. When the lights are turned off the most amazing phenomenon appears. Christ appears to be walking in the pale moonlight, while above and behind him appears a black cross. To many who have viewed this wonderful picture the cross appears to be bearing down upon the shoulders of the Christ. Awe-inspiring and benign. Many see in it the hand of the supernatural, but as a painting of Christ it has few equals. This is the last year of public exhibition.

POWER NOT WITH COMMITTEE

To Change Basis of Representation Republican Convention Must Be Called.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Power to change the basis of representation in the republican national convention does not lie with the republican national committee, though the committee has authority to call an intermediate convention to act upon the question. This was determined today by the law committee of the national committee after an all-day discussion of various questions referred to it preparatory to the meeting of the national committee here next month to consider reorganization of the party.

DISCUSS RURAL CREDITS.

A special committee had previously reported favorably on the plan.

New York, Nov. 11.—Nearer their goal by more than $100,000 was the result announced today at the close of the second day of the campaign of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, by members of the committee of 1,000. The exact amount was $102,195, but did not include small subscriptions made during the afternoon outside the business districts, which probably will raise the total to date much above the $129,541 announced.

PICK OUT THE DYSPEPTIC

You Can Tell Them Anywhere and Especially if You See One Eat.

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet With Digest Any Meal.

One of the saddest sights at a royal rich dinner is to see a man or a woman unable to eat because of dyspepsia. It is really a crime to continue this martyrdom when all one has to do is to eat a little Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

Just carry a tablet in your purse and after each meal eat it as you would a peppermint. It will digest the meal and sure enough you will not find food in your stomach.

"Too Bad." One grain of the ingredients which compose a Stuart's Tablet will digest 3000 grains of fish, soup, coffee, ice cream, meats, vegetables and pastries. The whole idea of this great natural digester is to aid nature to do her work without exhaustion and it certainly accomplishes this result.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are our best known remedy for all stomach and dyspepsia troubles. It is a powerful yet gentle laxative. See the way one of these little tablets will digest a meal and no one can realize it until one has used these tablets.

Every drug store sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. No matter where you are located, you may go to any drugist and buy a five box lot. The rules were suspended, and an ordinance to the effect desired was passed, subject to the approval of the city attorney.

"I Know I'll Be Sick." Many thousands of people use these tablets occasionally just to keep their digestion always perfect. If you stay up late or overeat then take a tablet before bedtime; there will be no horrible acid or stomach trouble. Go to your drugist now and buy a five box lot and you will find it a most useful stomach trouble.

Roads for Farmers or Joy Riders Is the Query at St. Louis

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—Does this nation need roads for the joyriders or roads for the farmer?

This discussion of this question at the annual convention of the National Good Roads association in session here today brought factionalism into the ranks of the 100 delegates present. On the side advocating "roads for the greatest user of roads—the farmer"—were Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama; Representative Thomas L. Rukey of Missouri; and Col. M. T. Kerr of Jackson, Miss.

Leading the "joyrider" faction was Jesse Taylor of Jamestown, Ohio, editor of Better Roads.

The controversy grew out of a proposed bill asking an appropriation of $25,000,000 for the improvement of roads throughout the country.

The bill was drafted by Senator Bankhead and will be submitted to the convention for approval before introduction in congress.

Says that Social Evil Can Be Stamped Out

Minneapolis, Nov. 11.—The social evil can be stamped out as positively and as easily as it is flourished, but must be along scientific lines, said Dr. T. B. Crothers of Hartford, Conn., in his address to the International Purify congress today. This can be done by coercion, segregation and a higher recognition of the causes which exist in every community, he said.

Dr. E. H. Pratt of Chicago described the nerve forces of the human system, which he termed the "live wire." His address related to immorality in schools.

"Suppression is not a cure and mere mannerisms, while they serve to improve appearances and establish a veneer of good manners among pupils, will but cover up more big possibilities if the organic self consciousness involved is induced by some form of irritation," he said. "Under such conditions sooner or later when opportunity is ripe and circumstances are convenient, the suppressed tendencies are sure to break out into some type of abject expression."

FOR SAFETY AT SEA.

Rev. Carroll Smith, pastor of the church, will assist in conducting the meeting.

TO FLOAT LOUISIANA BONDS

Governor Explains to Committee His Plans for Handling $11,000,000 Bonds Issued Jan. 1.

Houston, Nov. 11.—Governor Luther E. Hall today explained to the committee on bonded indebtedness his plans for handling the $11,000,000 Louisiana bonds due January 1. Meanwhile the constitutional convention which is considering the subject, adjourned until tomorrow.

The governor advised the committee that the state would have difficulty at this time of stress in the money market in getting money at less than 8 per cent. He said the bond commission's hands were tied by the legislature and could not negotiate a loan at more than 4 per cent hence a constitutional convention was necessary. It was impossible to get money for this purpose and he would not be a party to a plan to discount the outstanding bonds.

The governor said he believed a plan of making the bonds redeemable at 104 at any time would make them attractive to holders and prove advantageous to the state in the event the money market became easier.

"Three rights are reserved to the state," he said. "It can retire a part or all of the bonds at any time at 104. This permits refunding at a lower rate of interest, if that be practically possible."

"The state can use any surplus funds to purchase the bonds in the open market. It can retire at 104 those bonds bearing the furthest date of maturity when surplus funds are available."

PERMIT FOR SPUR TRACK.

Voted By Commission to St. Louis

W. R. Brazelton appeared before the city commission yesterday afternoon to ask permission for a spur track to be built by the St. Louis and Southwestern railroad on Mary street, near Ninth. The city has no claim at present to the ground which this spur will cross, said Mr. Brazelton, but it was requested that the right of way be granted in case any question of ownership by the city should be raised in the future. The rules were suspended, and an ordinance to the effect desired was passed, subject to the approval of the city attorney.

Measles in Alaska.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Final instructions were telegraphed tonight by Acting Commandant Emery of the revenue cutter service to Captain Woodbury in command of the northern district at Seattle, regarding relief to be sent the inhabitants of Kodiak Island, Alaska, where an epidemic of measles has developed. Captain Woodbury was directed to co-operate with the Red Cross and to put aboard the cutter Tahoma medical and other supplies the Red Cross will furnish at Seattle. The Tahoma will steam north as soon as possible. More than one hundred cases of measles have developed on Kodiak and neighboring islands and there have been several deaths.

Colquitt Back at Austin.

Austin, Nov. 11.—Governor Colquitt returned last night from Houston, where he attended the opening ceremonies of the Not-Su-Oh carnival. He was well pleased with the carnival and the hospitality shown him by the Houstonians. The governor will probably return to Houston some time this week, as soon as the business of the executive office is cleared up. He will open the Matagorda county fair at Bay City on November 17. The Cuero trophy trot on November 19, the fair at El Campo on November 21, and the Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth on November 22.

Press Day at Not-Su-Oh is Success

Houston, Nov. 11.—This was State Press Day at the Not-Su-Oh and more than 100 editors were entertained. There was a luncheon at noon, dinner at the Rice hotel and various other entertainments. The old time editors, holding their regular meeting at Seabrook, also showed up and were the recipients of much attention. Other features of the day included the midway, hippodrome, motorcycle parade, poultry exhibit, show of agricultural products, "made in Houston" goods, confetti battles and at night the gorgeous king's parade. The weather is ideal and the attendance this year is proving a record-breaker. This is the last Not-Su-Oh exhibition and another year he Coast County Fair is to supplant it.

SAILORS ARE "STUNG."

Place Fund in Hands of Musician—He Absconds.

Rome, Nov. 11.—The bluebelly of the American battleships Utah and Delaware now at Villa Franca, and of the Vermont and Ohio at Marselias, through misplaced confidence may miss a trip to Rome for which they have been making preparation. Alfonso Calderazzo, a former landman of the Utah, on recommendation of Captain Wm. H. I. Reany, was made the custodian of a $3,000 fund which the sailors set aside for this purpose. It was reported to Captain Reany that Calderazzo could not be found. In the afternoon Gerald A. Griffin, paymaster's clerk of the Utah, arrived at Rome. He said he had met Calderazzo at Ventimiglia on the Franco-Italian frontier. The latter explained he would not be able to fulfill his obligations to the sailors and Griffin urged him to telegraph immediately to the captains of the battleships a full explanation of the situation.

Barr Still Held.

Dallas, Nov. 11.—Following his appearance before the grand jury, Meade Barr will be held in Dallas for several days pending a further investigation. Barr, an Indiana Reformatory inmate, confessed that he murdered Miss Florence Brown, then in open court retracted that confession. It is not known how long he will be kept here. He refuses to talk.

For Suffrage in State of Louisiana

New Orleans, Nov. 11.—Despite opposition to the continued discussion of the state's rights, the Louisiana state suffrage convention adopted resolutions tonight providing that "this southern conference of women take steps to have the political parties of the south, through the state central committees, declare themselves in favor of woman suffrage through state amendment."

The resolutions also urged the organization of men's clubs in the interest of votes for women through state amendment.

SIGNS POSTED FOR AUTOISTS.

Parking Places Designated So He Who Drives of the cars from out of town points who will participate in the automobile parade today signs have been posted along the streets where the cars are to be parked. These signs designate the parking places for each out-of-town division and are for the guidance of the captains, who will be in charge of the divisions.

Bolivar C. Nettles, at the head of a committee of automobile dealers, posted the signs last night. The corps of hustlers worked until a late hour, their operations attracting much attention from pedestrians where curiosity was excited by the unusual spectacle presented by the body of business men working as bill posters at an unusual hour.

Boards Not Responsible.

Austin, Nov. 11.—The department of education was advised by the attorney general's department that members of the school board would not be liable for damages personally or otherwise in an official capacity where the board exercised a proper discretion in the discharge of official duties, even though it should afterwards be determined that such discretion was erroneously exercised; that if their conduct was not malicious no damages would lie.

JURIES MAKING FARCE OF LAW

CARRYING INDULGENCE BEYOND
LAW'S INTENT, JUDGE MUN-
ROE DECLARES.

COURT ADMINISTRATORS REBUKE

Illustrates Ridiculous Phases Some Cases Have Taken by Placing Forger Under $100,000 Bond.

Turning the acts of juries in granting suspension of sentence in cases where convictions had been obtained and where pleas of guilty were made in criminal cases in the Fifty-Fourth District court as a farce, Judge Munroe yesterday, stating that he would add to the farcical performance, placed J. T. Wright's recognizance bond at $100,000 after Wright had been freed by a jury.

Forger Pleads Guilty.

Wright entered a plea of guilty before a jury in Judge Munroe's court to a charge of forgery. After accepting the plea the jury assessed Wright's punishment at four years imprisonment, and recommended to the court that the sentence be suspended. As it is mandatory upon the judge to grant recommendations for suspended sentence, Judge Munroe called Wright to the stand and causing him to raise his right hand in oath placed him under a recognizance bond of $100,000. The act was aimed as a rebuke to juries whom the judge considers have been too liberal with the suspended sentence law.

Court Has No Option.

Commenting upon his action, Judge Munroe said: "A $100,000 is just as good as a $500 bond, no better and no worse. The law requires that when a jury recommends that sentence be suspended, I, as district judge, must so order. It also requires that the person whose sentence is so suspended be placed under a personal bond to the state. Such a bond is worthless in most cases and a $100,000 bond is no better than a $100 bond. As the suspended sentence law has been used in this court it is a farce; to add to and make a greater farce, I placed bond in this case at $100,000."

Many Guilty Go Free.

Judge Munroe's action came after a half dozen persons had been freed by juries in his court during the present term under the suspended sentence law. "The people seem to think that I am turning all the crooks loose," he said. "I not only am not turning them loose, but I do not sanction the acts of the juries that do grant them the suspension of sentence."

Judge Munroe was among the first judges of the state to hold up granting the suspended sentence, on the ground that it was not constitutional. He took this action immediately after the law was passed by the legislature some time ago. For some time he refused to grant the suspension of sentence, until finally the supreme court rendered a verdict on a test case appealed from Houston.

Wright was said to have forged a check obtaining money at West.

COMMISSION HEARS 5 CASES

State Railroad Commission Considers Readjustment of General
Rule No. 2.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 11.—After one day's session the railroad commission managed to hear five cases set for the November hearing. The entire morning session was spent in the argument for the proposed readjustment of general rule No. 2 to make it read: "The rate between two points in this state shall not, in any case, exceed the sum of the rates applying between such given points and a point intermediate via any available route of shipment."

The railroad commission took the matter under consideration and passed to the consideration of the proposition to apply single line rates on the Eastern Texas-Stephenville North and South Texas railway—St. Louis Southwestern railway of Texas. The entire question seemed to devolve round the proof of the statements advanced by State Senator J. B. Egan as to whether the roads were under the same management and control. H. O. Earl, superintendent of the Cotton Belt, testified that the Eastern Texas road was separate. The matter was taken under consideration.

Postponement was entered on the proposition to readjust rates on sweat pads, wire cloth, hand trucks and iron brackets. The proposed readjustment of rates to allow a 10-cent rate on cement was opposed by Messrs. Maxwell and Wallingford and the matter taken under advisement.

The petition for depot facilities at Ralls, on the Crosbyton-South Plains railroads brought up the fight between the two townships of Cedric and Ralls—one and one-half miles apart. The commission took no action. Adjournment until Wednesday morning was ordered.

Wants No Politics in School Business

Dallas, Nov. 11.—Believing it best that the business of the public be kept from under the influence of "of benefit city politics," the public school board at their meeting discussed the proposition of renting a suite of rooms in the Busch building as school board headquarters. No vote was taken on the proposition. It was referred to a committee.

Other school matters were considered at the meeting.

Grant Traction Co. Request.

Dallas, Nov. 11.—At a meeting of the commissioners' court permission was granted the Dallas Southwestern Traction company to amend its franchise to operate the line over the new cut-off from the West Dallas pike on Fisher avenue into Cement City. This action was taken following the filing of a petition signed by 119 persons and the appearance of E. P. Turner and John T. Witt of the traction company before the commissioners. The order was passed by a unanimous vote of the commissioners. This means that the Glen Ross-Denton Interurban will connect with Cement City.

INTEREST IN GAMES

NEW YORK WILL WITNESS TWO BIG FOOTBALL CONTESTS
THIS SEASON.

Seventy-five Thousand People Want
Tickets to Army-Navy Game at Polo Grounds.

New York, Nov. 11.—With the first of the two big football games to be played in this city set for Saturday, local interest in the gridiron sport is rapidly rising to the standard set by college towns. Despite the overshadowing effect of the Yale-Princeton game at New Haven, there is a big demand for tickets for the Carlisle Indian-Dartmouth contest at the Polo grounds next Saturday.

Great as is the interest in this game, however, it falls short of the general enthusiasm and ticket demand for the Army and Navy contest on November 25. The enormous seating capacity of the Polo grounds stadium, approximately 45,000, has been found wholly unequal to the demand for coupons. Although it was believed the move from Franklin field in Philadelphia, to the baseball park here would solve the problem of seating all who desire to witness the football battle between the soldiers and sailors, such has not been the case.

With the game still more than two weeks away, the ticket demand exceeds the seating capacity by many thousands. Secretary John Foster of the New York baseball club estimates that close to 75,000 seat coupons could have been sold.

An effort is being made to have the competing players in both these games numbered so that there may be no doubt as to the men making touchdowns, runs and tackles. Coach Cavanaugh and the Dartmouth College Athletic council have consented to the plan, but Coach Glen Warner of the Carlisle Indians said his team cannot adopt this innovation. Dartmouth is the first big college team to use this numbering plan in the east, although it has proved successful in the west and in eastern school boy games. If it proves successful in the Dartmouth-Indian game, the Army and Navy eleven will be urged to adopt the same method of identification for the closing game of the season on November 25.

FAST GAME THURSDAY

BAYLOR VS. AUSTIN COLLEGE ON CARROLL FIELD TO BE SPIRITED.

Teams Are About Equal in Strength and a Lively Scrimmage Is Expected by the Fans.

One of the most evenly matched football games that has been seen in Waco this season is promised for Carroll field tomorrow afternoon when the eleven of Baylor and Austin College, Sherman, clash. From all indications the two teams are about equal in strength and the promise of good weather presages a contest that has been possible on a number of occasions this year.

Heretofore Handicapped.

Baylor has played to a disadvantage several times this year on account of the handicap this year. While the Baptist team is in very good shape as a whole, Mitchell and Jenkins are not up to standard physically, though it is likely they will be able to participate in at least a part of the game.

Forward Pass for Baylor.

While the Presbyterians have not played here this season, it is understood that they not only buck the line pretty well, but can manipulate the forward pass as well.

Trifling Defeated.

The Baptists have been defeated three times this season, but only by strong teams from the universities of Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana. They have not been defeated on their own grounds and will endeavor to prevent such an occurrence during the entire season. They have usually put the Presbyterians on the defensive in gridiron activities and will seek to do so again this season.

BASEBALL MAGNATES MEET

Players' Fraternity May Present Demands—Thirty Organizations Represented.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 11.—What action will be taken by the convention of the National Association of Baseball leagues on demands of the Players' Fraternity was a matter of conjecture here tonight.

The convention today thought of a committee if representatives of the fraternity appeared on the floor of the convention, while others believed the demands would be referred to a committee if representatives of the fraternity appeared on the floor of the convention, while others believed the demands would be referred to a committee if representatives of the fraternity appeared on the floor of the convention.

Twenty-four leagues out of forty-three holding membership in the association were represented at today's meeting. When delegates, snow bound at Cleveland arrive it is thought that thirty baseball organizations will be credited with voting power. The convention will begin actual work tomorrow.

Governor Cox of Ohio and Governor Hooper of Tennessee were the central figures at the afternoon session. Ohio's executive welcomed the delegates to Ohio and Tennessee's governor recalled that that Nashville wants the next convention.

Secretary Farrell's roll call showed one or more delegates present from the following leagues:

SEWER QUESTION IS SETTLED

City Commission Gives Definite Reply to Query of Mr. Higgins Concerning Deep Sewer.

J. W. Higgins addressed a letter to the city commission yesterday asking for a definite statement as to the action which had been taken on the deep sewer proposition, and the commission notified him that the matter is definitely settled so far as the commission is concerned; that money will be appropriated for half the cost of the sewer, on condition that the bonds about to be submitted to the people are passed. The other half of the cost must be met by the property owners who make connection with the sewer. The city attorney was instructed, on motion of Commissioner Foster, to draw up a contract for the purpose of assuring that the parties benefiting will pay their share of the cost.

Will Be Little Delay.

Mayor Mackay stated that there would be little delay by the bond issue than if the money were already appropriated. Bids will at once be advertised for, to be opened the day after the election. It is practically certain, in the mayor's opinion, that the bonds will be carried, and if they do so, money will be advanced from the sinking fund to finance the sewer, and it will not be necessary to wait for the sale of the bonds.

READ THIS
I believe that Waco will double her present population in the next ten years. This opinion on the following: Waco is the center of the state and is surrounded by the cream of the black land belt of Texas; the railroads to the west and east, the interurban, just completed from Waco to Dallas, is the first line of a system that eventually will extend its lines over all roads leading out of the city. Waco has an inexhaustible supply of good water, a public school system and a university second to none in the state. Property in Waco has doubled in value in the last ten years. No one will make a mistake in investing his money in business property in Waco or in lands near the city. Having had many years of successful experience I enjoy a wide acquaintance among persons who rely on my judgment and integrity as a substantial real estate man. Here is the opportunity for any one wishing to buy or sell at the right price. Get on our live wires. They are always working.

WOMEN OF WACO HONOR MRS. BASS

SHE IS CHOSEN TO PRESIDE OVER COTTON PALACE WOMEN OF 1914.

TEA, ORATORY, CONGRATULATION

Despite Protestations, She Is Re-elected by Unanimous Vote of Women's Department.

Women of Waco who were co-workers in the plans and exhibits for the Texas Cotton Palace of 1913, yesterday voted unanimously to recommend to the directors of the association that Mrs. J. W. Bass be named as general chairman for the women's department of the Cotton Palace of 1914.

It was really a spontaneous outburst of appreciation by the women who have been helpers with Mrs. Bass. They spoke of her as the "general," who had been in charge, and said that it was through her efforts that so much had been accomplished. They expressed their appreciation in a ringing vote, and although Mrs. Bass protested, saying that she could not undertake again the duty, they were insistent that her name be conveyed to the directors with the indorsement of the women.

Guests of Mrs. Bass.

It was at 3 o'clock that all the assistants in the work of the departments in which women had a hand, gathered at the Japanese tea room, conducted during the exposition by Mrs. W. O. Wilkes. They came in response to an invitation from Mrs. Bass to be her guests at tea, with a few crackers and cakes on the side. When they were gathered Mrs. Bass addressed her guests, saying that she appreciated the help each one had given; that without co-operation nothing could have been accomplished, but that in all the plans and work she had been given cordial support.

"I have gained a great deal through the close association with you in this work and I owe a great deal to each of you. This is the only time we have been together when we have had our sleeves rolled up, and it is my first opportunity to thank you for your help. If you work for a thing you love it, and if you love a thing you work for it, and that is the secret of our success in the Cotton Palace."

Mrs. W. E. Spell responded to Mrs. Bass. She said:

"I feel confident there is not a woman in Waco but who has heartily welcomed her, and she has a right to feel that way about it. The women have done their work well, and it is their right to feel proud. Of course there are women who have not participated in this work, but all of them would have been willing to do it, and they did not have a part in it, they are proud of the part that the women workers did take in building the 1913 Cotton Palace. More is due to the splendid generalship of Mrs. Bass than anything else. For she was ever won without a general to direct it, and she has issued the orders and her associates have carried them out. We have followed her, we have been proud of her and we are glad of our success."

Eulogies Miss Friend.

Mrs. W. O. Wilkes said: "I agree with all that has been said, but there is one woman who does not get enough credit for what she does. Without press to help us, we would not have been able to accomplish what we have. Miss Kate Friend has stood by us loyally; she has been the 'woman behind the gun,' and through her efforts we have been able to do these things."

Miss Friend Speaks.

There were loud calls for Miss Friend. She said: "In harmony with success and co-operation has been the keynote of the work of the women. We can all throw bouquets and the bouquets are thrown. If we had been disgruntled we would not have made good, but there was no disunion of any kind. We don't owe our success to any one, but we owe it to the loyalty of that womanhood. Look what we accomplished with our parade."

The Women on Time.

"Sheriff Fleming said, 'Why, Mrs. Bass, no parade ever started on time.' She said that the women's parade would start on time and it did. Four minutes to 2 o'clock, Mrs. General Bass was at the starting point. An outsider from her carriage went flying to the grand marshal with instruction to line up the sound of police for the start. They were lined up at 2 o'clock, and the parade moved, and Mrs. General Bass brought her carriage into line directly following. The others followed her, and the women's parade was on time. Women do things, when they set out to do them. The press has been with you in your work. You have the good will of the press and you have its co-operation in everything you undertake. We pledge you our efforts in all your public work, and if we can make it a success for you, we will do it. Now that we have discussed the success of this year, I want to nominate Mrs. J. W. Bass for general chairman for the women's department for the 1914 Cotton Palace."

The motion was seconded and was put to a rising vote and every woman voted.

Mrs. Bass tried to protest, but there were no ears to hear her voice and no eyes to see her shaking hand. She was "it."

Mrs. W. O. Wilkes was assisted in serving the tea by Mrs. E. W. Thompson, Mrs. W. C. Richter, Mrs. F. E. McPeak, Miss Kate Thompson, Miss Marquette Thompson, Miss Adrian Wilkes and Charles Richter.

THANKS FOR CHARTER

COMMITTEE'S FAITHFUL WORK FORMALLY RECOGNIZED BY COMMISSION.

Col. McCollum Turns Over the Completed Document to the City Secretary.

The charter committee made its final report to the city commission yesterday morning, received a vote of thanks for the year's work and were discharged after accepting the congratulations of the commissioners for the successful completion of their arduous task.

The representation from the charter committee consisted of Chairman A. R. McCollum, Forest Goodman, E. F. Carroll and Peyton Randle.

Chairman McCollum Speaks.
Colonel McCollum, after turning over the completed charter to the city yesterday, stated that the committee wished to go on record as appreciative of the considerate treatment received at the hands of the commissioners. No attempt had been made by the city authorities to influence the committee, or to bring any pressure to bear on them other than that of private citizens, said Colonel McCollum, and the commissioners had shown themselves desirous of assisting the work at all times.

Mayor Mackey Responds.

Mayor Mackey, in response, thanked the committee for its work and reviewed the history of the committee from the time, a year ago, when the mass meeting nominated McCollum as chairman, down to the final sessions. "Whether the charter is good or bad," said the mayor, "the citizenship of Waco is very grateful for the labor that has been done in its behalf by this committee."

Committee Discharged.

A motion was passed thanking the committee and discharged it. Commissioner Littlefield asked what steps had been taken to secure accuracy in the copy of the charter which will be distributed to the public. Colonel McCollum replied that Commissioner Caulfield, in his contract with the printing company, had stipulated that the printer should guarantee accurate proofreading.

4,000 Copies to Be Printed.

Mayor Mackey suggested that the charter be referred to Commissioner Caulfield, the city attorney and the city secretary, who should attend to the printing and distribution among the Waco voters of 4,000 copies of the document.

This suggestion was adopted on motion of Commissioner Littlefield.

GERMANS NEXT WITH BIG PARADE

FLOATS OF SURPASSING BEAUTY AND ELEGANCE WILL BE DISPLAYED.

SEVERAL SURPRISES PROMISED

German-American Patriots of the Civil War Lead the Line of Pageantry Through the Streets.

Neither expense nor pains will be spared in arranging floats of surpassing gorgeousness for the German Day parade, which will be seen tomorrow.

With commendable zeal and devotion to the Cotton Palace and all Texas, the Germans are going to out-do all former efforts. They appreciate the honor shown the Fatherland by the exposition management and are showing it in a substantial way.

Some Specimens.

To give some idea of the elaborateness of the German Day floats a description, as far as words can go, is here given:

The first float will be occupied by the Kreiger Vereln, or German-American patriots of the civil war. In the center of the float is a monument, as it were, in honor of the famous German generals, Herkimer, Muhlenberg, Steuben, De Kalb, Schurz, Blenner and Osterhaus, with German and American insignias interwoven in most appropriate decorative schemes, by master minds.

Sons of Hermann.

The second float will be occupied by the Sons of Hermann in a lodge meeting representation. Around the top frame work beautifully arranged, are the words "Freundschaft," "Liebe" and "Treue," meaning "Friendship," "Love" and "Truth." This float is gorgeous in design and the color scheme is so planned as to comport with the entire pageantry decorations.

The third float will bear the inscription "Lorelei," meaning in substance Ladies' Auxiliary, or the sister lodge of the Sons of Hermann. A lovely queen will be seated amid roses and thorns, depicting the famous German legend of the lady of the thorns, a lass of exquisite beauty, whose lovers were legion, but thwarted constantly by masses of thorn-bearing vines and almost impenetrable briars. The hero of the legend, however, overcame all and won the much-sought hand. The hero will be shown on the float.

Deutscher Central Verein.

The fourth float will be occupied by the Deutscher Central Verein, displaying a summer bower, spreading vines and flowers, with a table whereat will be seated four ladies in a social tea-tete, depicting a typical "coffee klatch."

The fifth float has been designed by the Maennerchor and represents music and harmony, embellished with beautiful decorations and to be occupied by five young ladies of charm and grace.

Float From Riesel.

The sixth float has been prepared by Riesel and vicinity, representing German art and bearing on various columns the names of famous German painters, including Menzel, Bierstadt, Lenbach and Lieutze.

The seventh float will be occupied by the Maennerchor, representing the thorough keeping with the gorgeousness of the entire pageantry.

The eighth float in line will no doubt bring round after round of applause from the awaiting multitudes who will review the magnificent pageantry. This float will bear the beautiful German day queen, seated upon a throne of white, on the "milky way" as it were above the clouds, surrounded by a circle of diamond brilliancy amid blendings of blue and purple. The queen and her attendants on this gorgeous float will bestow their most gracious smiles upon the subjects of the realm of King Cotton numbered as natives of descendants of the Fatherland, as well as the vast throngs, one and all.

The ninth division will consist of decorated autos and vehicles of various kinds.

After the parade, which will move about 12 o'clock, according to the latest information, the Germans and all the people will go to the Cotton Palace for a pleasurable afternoon in the buildings and on the grounds. In the evening in the coliseum there will

OLD LOG CABIN ATTRACTIVE.

The W. O. W. log cabin at the Cotton Palace is attracting much attention from visitors and especially the early settlers of Texas. The "cabin" is being used by the Woodmen of the World and Woodmen Circle as headquarters, and a registration book is being kept by J. D. Alexander and other prominent Woodmen.

Souvenirs are given all visitors who register. Several thousands of members have already attached their names to the record. The cabin is very unique and very typical of the early day homes of many who have been especially attracted by its unique appearance.

Will A. Harris, head banker of the order in Texas, has been meeting many visitors at the log cabin. He says he was born in a log house in Rains county on the Sanger farm, where his father and mother now live, in Point. Next year the cabin will be enlarged and it is hoped that the annual state rally will be held in Waco during the Cotton Palace exposition.

are absent when called upon at any time during the institute, are asked to show why their certificates should not be cancelled for such non-attendance.

"School Sanitation" Today.

Each of the two days passed have been full of work, with addresses and instruction and study. This morning one of the principal matters upon which instruction will be given, is school sanitation.

Relative to the institute Prof. Abbott said: "It's the finest gathering of negro school teachers the county has ever had. As the schools for this race are soon to begin, the institute is most important and they seem to realize this."

Temple Couple Surprise Friends.

Bellon, Nov. 11.—Emil Pandew, a young Temple business man, and Miss Edna Williams, also of Temple, slipped away from friends and relatives last night and came to this city, where a marriage license was procured and at the home of a friend, William Pandew, were united in marriage by Rev.
